Gardens of Water

Lilies floating on a serene pond, dragonflies with transparent wings darting from spot to spot, colorful fish leisurely swimming close to the surface, a waterfall adding its peaceful rushing to the scene ... a dream place?

No, it's Upland's Van Ness Water Gardens.

The gardens have been around since the 1920s and have grown substantially during the past few years. Bill Uber, the present owner, sees the gardens as a labor of love.

"I really enjoy my time here," he said. "It's something I've been around all my life and something I enjoy doing."

Uber bought the business from his father in 1976 after growing up at the gardens. "We all helped," he said. "It was the family business."

The firm sells both wholesale and retail all over the world and the Upland gardens serve as both a showplace and store.

"We raise and hybridize water lilies, bog plants, small plants and ornamentals," he said, "in addition to selling fish and all the supplies necessary to create and maintain backyard water gardens."

Water gardens were very popular in the early part of the century. Uber said people in some of the older homes in Upland have discovered ponds that had been filled in. "With a little work, many of these are in use again."

Creating a magical, peaceful oasis in the average backyard is probably simpler and less expensive than one might imagine, Uber said.

Cost for a 500-gallon pond, complete with fish and plants runs about $300 to $400 when the backyard building is done by the home owner.

"Many people remember enjoying the pools at the homes of grandparents and now are interested in creating something like that for themselves," he said.

Uber says he amazed by the amount of work people are willing to put into creating exactly what they want. He said he remembers an Upland doctor and his wife who came in and wanted to start with a 1,000-gallon pond, a stream and a waterfall.

"His wife was an attractive blond with well-manicured hands, very petite — I took a look at them and thought 'no way.' I recommended they start less ambitiously but they wouldn't hear of it."

"A week later, in she marched. The nails were destroyed but she had done it!"

Uber speculated the reason people are willing to do the labor themselves is it's a source of enjoyment plus once the garden is completed, it only requires about an hour a month of maintenance.

Uber estimates 95 percent or more of the pools are built by the home owner. "We do a lot of maintenance in pools in the Beverly Hills area and I'm continually amazed at how many of those Beverly Hills businessmen will actually get out and dig the holes themselves."

Pools, Uber says, are a basic life source. "They attract animals and are in essence an aquasphere. You can see the whole life cycle at work. It's awe-inspiring."

Bill Uber, Van Ness owner, looks over the pool used to raise lilies (above) and (below) shows the 'plant of the future' a lily that will keep the pond clean and give off valuable by-products. On the cover: Lilies come in all shapes and sizes and water gardeners are able to choose just what fulfills their needs.

Uber says the use of PVC liners had brought both the costs and headaches of construction way down. "The liners are inexpensive and very flexible — it cuts down the time and costs of actually constructing the pools," he said.

Once the pool is in, Uber says, then the threats start. Threats? "We get threats from people because they get a little (5 inches long, 1 inch across) root for their lily — cost varies from $12.95 up to the hundreds of dollars — and they are uncertain it will ever grow."

Uber pointed to some of the lilies and asked, "Wouldn't you threaten me if I sold you that for $15?"

Uber says water gardens thrive on neglect. "Once a balance has been achieved, it needs to be left pretty much alone, nature takes care of maintaining the balance."

Unfortunately, many people are very meticulous and keep "messing with it." "These are the people that get fed up and then abandon it. Imagine their surprise when it balances itself out a few months later. They learn."

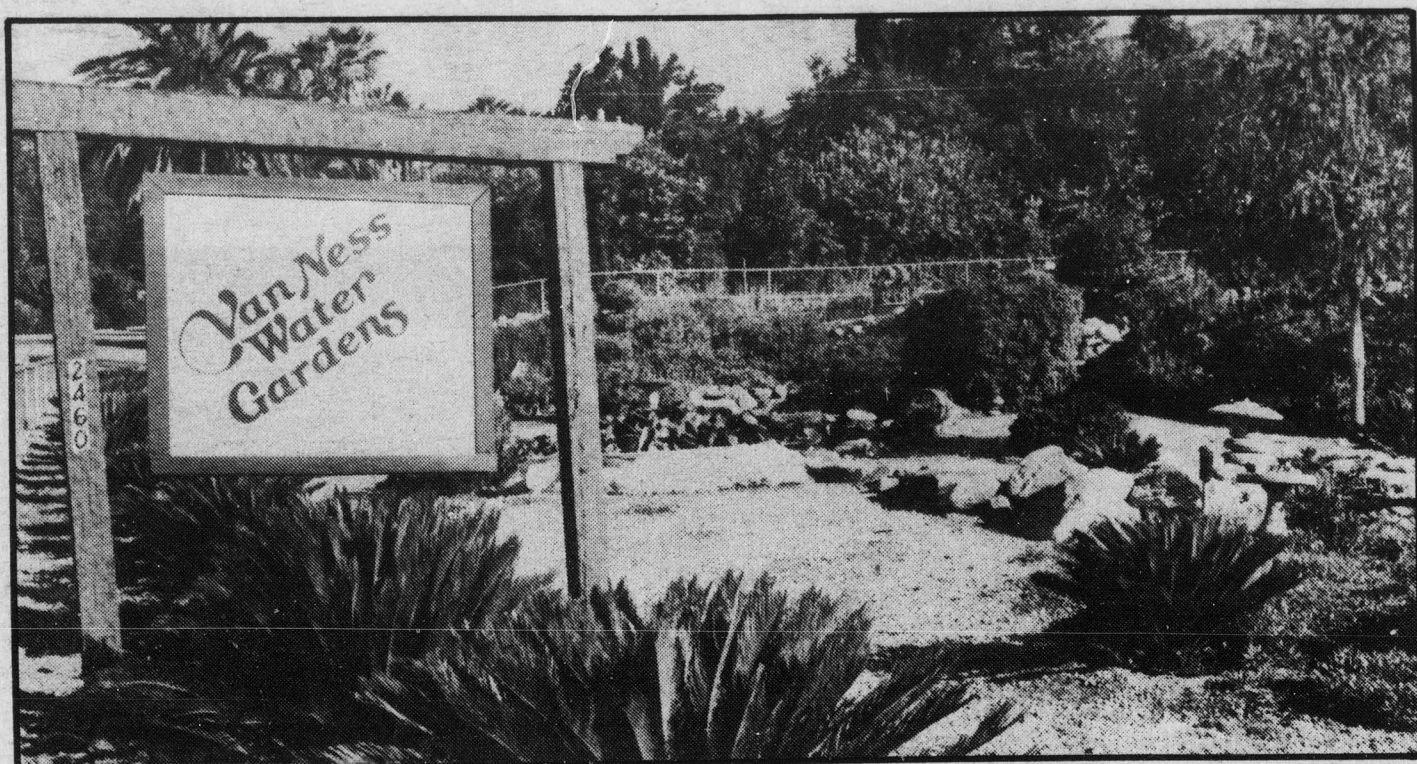

Water, Uber said, has an immense attraction for people. "It (the water garden) becomes the focal point of the garden. There is entertainment value in the antics of birds and other animals attracted by the water. Fish become favorites and respond as any other pet would to people they become familiar with. Plus it's fun to watch the dragonflies and the developing baby fish," he said.

Uber offers tropical blooming water lilies, night bloomers and hardies. Colors vary from pristine white to yellows, pinks, reds, lavenders and even blues and greens.

Hardies, Uber said, live for years even in the coldest climates. They bloom April until October and lay on the water surface. Sizes vary from miniature to huge. Most take between four and six weeks to bloom and become well established.

"Don't be surprised if the first blooms are not the color expected," he said, "it takes time for the true color to emerge and the color intensity can be affected by soil conditions, fertilizer, sunlight and climate."

Tropical night bloomers require full sun during the day. Night bloomers usually don't open until dark and then close when the heat of the day comes. These flowers have long, graceful stems and stand above the surface of water.

The tropical day-blooming lilies usually have huge blooms and perch as high as 18 inches above the water on long stems. They are good for house arrangements. Tropicals are also very fragrant and have a long blooming season. Color choices are wide also.

Uber says they are very adaptable and open wide to the sun before noon and close for the night at dusk. Only in tropicals are the blue shades available, he said.

Every pond owner worries about keeping the water clean. Uber warns that putting the pond together quickly doesn't allow the time necessary for everything (water, fish, plants) to adapt to each other so the pond will turn murky and then take on a green tinge.

Left unchecked, it will progress to "pea soup." Uber explained that some algae in a pool is desirable. All green plants absorb nutrients and convert it to new plant tissue, giving off oxygen as a by-product.

Uber says the best way to prevent excessive algae is through pond balance. This can be done chemically or by adding plants that starve out algae by consuming available nutrients and cutting off the sunlight. Mechanical methods such as the activated charcoal/carbon filters are also effective.

Uber says it can take as long as two months for a pool to clear but some do so in a few weeks. There are a lot of variables, Uber notes.

Need for extra chemicals should decrease if the pond has been properly planted and once the plants begin to grow and thrive. After the first few weeks, most ponds remain balanced for years. There is no need to change water.

For people with less space, tub gardens offer an alternative. Almost any space can accommodate some type of garden. Uber has several suggestions for smaller gardens. The half cask, ceramic pots, old crocks, galvanized horse troughs all can provide a container for the miniature tub garden.

They can be placed above the ground or sunk in and Uber says planting is simpler in the tub gardens. The only fish they recommend for tub gardens are guppies or Mosquito Fish.

Van Ness Water Gardens are located at 2480 N. Euclid Ave. □

Make your own water garden

Creating a relaxing atmosphere in the back yard can be done easily and with the minimum of fuss by installing a water garden.

Bill Uber, owner of Van Ness Water Gardens in Upland, and his staff offer tips and guidance in creating a water wonderland.

Uber recommends that anyone considering a garden be practical about size and design. Although water gardens are almost maintenance-free, it takes work to put one in.

Uber says one of the best things that has happened to water gardening in the last few years are the new methods and materials for pond construction. PCV liners, for example, provide an alternative to cement construction.

Before digging, select the site carefully, avoiding areas where trees or shrubbery will shed into water. The most important factor choosing a site is that it receive full, direct sun for the majority of the day.

Outline the proposed pond with a rope on the ground, trying different shapes until you get one that pleases you.

Plan to have straight sides instead of sloping. This offers less surfaces where algae tend to adhere, provides a more uniform depth and is easier to plant.

There should be as much floor surface as water surface. The pond should be 18 to 24 inches deep and the same depth overall. It is difficult to maintain shallower pools.

A 2 percent slope on the pond floor to one end will make cleaning and emptying easier.

PCV liners provide a durable construction material with enough elasticity to mold the liner to the shape of the pond. Polyethylene should not be used. Uber also advises people planning to buy a liner do so at a water garden supplier because conventional PCV is treated with anti-bacterial agents which can kill fish if it are used to line a pond.

Ponds can be constructed either above or in the ground, using the liner method.

For in-ground ponds, dig at least 18 inches and be sure the pond rim is absolutely level from side to side and end to end. If it is not level, the liner will show on the high side. Remove any sharp rocks.

It is also a good idea to put a protective layer of material under the liner to protect it. Suggested materials include sand, damp newspapers, building felt or discarded carpet padding.

A frame for above-ground pools can be made with a variety of materials, including blocks, bricks, or railroad ties.

Liners are more flexible if allowed to warm in the sun. Liner should be spread tautly and evenly over the excavation or frame and then anchored with small weights on the outer edges.

To fill the pond, place a garden hose in the center and begin to run water into it. The weight of the water will pull the liner down,

Tom Garnella packs plenty into his days

By Matt Coker

Those who say they never have time to do anything should talk to Tom Garnella.

Besides being the assistant superintendent of business at Central School District in Rancho Cucamonga, the San Antonio Heights resident is also on the Chaffey College Board of Trustees and is an on-call firefighter for the California Department of Forestry.

The 40-year-old educator also finds time to be a member of the Upland Kiwanis and Citizens for Flood Control, plays golf, bowls, and spends every possible weekend at his Big Bear cabin. He also has a private pilot's license.

He doesn't seem burdened by all his responsibilities, but when someone suggests that he probably has little time left for his personal life, Garnella replies "you must have been talking with my wife."

And his wife of 13 years, Judy, would be one to talk. The owner of an interior design business, she is a former Ontario-Montclair School District teacher, and a member of Upland's American Business Womens Association, the San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary, the American Society of Interior Designers' Inland Chapter, the Assistance League of Upland and the American Association of University Women.

Garnella became an assistant principal at West Covina's Charter Oak School District in 1975, when he moved into his San Antonio Heights home.

In 1979, he became assistant superintendent of business in the San Marino School District. Two years later, Garnella took the same job at Anaheim's Savanna School District. Earlier this year, Garnella came to Central.

Along the way, Garnella attained a doctorate in educational administration with a specialty in school finance from USC.

Though both received doctorates from USC and worked at school districts in the Anaheim area, Garnella had never met Central's Superintendent Frank Cosca — who, like Garnella, just finished his first year in the district — before coming to Central.

As Garnella sat in his overstuffed leather chair at the district's offices during an interview last week, he said, "the most happy I've been is here at Central — this is the first time in eight years that I've worked and lived in the same general area."

"It seems like several things fell into place in August of 1982," he said. "I was appointed to the Chaffey College Board of Trustees and a few months later I got the job here."

Since 1977, Garnella has been a paid firefighter at the CDF station at 24th Street and Euclid Avenue north of Upland.

"I got involved because of my experience at Vietnam of helping people in need of lifesaving," he said. "I also wanted to get involved in the local community."

Though he has a number of degrees and certificates, Garnella said he does not intend to move to a larger school

Frank Mezquita and his wife, Mary, owners of Live or Die Enterprises, an Upland store featuring uniforms and other supplies for police officers.

His wares are meant to save lives

By David Miller

Frank Mezquita considers himself an expert on body armor. A Los Angeles police officer and owner of Live or Die Enterprises in Upland, he says an officer's decision on whether to wear a bullet-proof vest is often a matter of life or death.

Six officers were shot to death in California last year, and all but one were not wearing any type of bullet-proof vest. The one who was wearing a vest was killed by a gunshot wound in the head. Seven officers have already been killed this year, and Mezquita fears that the numbers will only increase.

"Most of the bad guys have better weapons than we do," he says.

Mezquita, 37, has been a member of the LAPD force for 15 years and expects to retire in 1989. He says the chance that a cop will be gunned down somewhere in California is going to remain high until the state's judicial system undergoes considerable changes, including shorter trials, longer sentences for people committing serious crimes and quick executions for those sentenced to death row.

But until those changes are made, Mezquita says, officers would be wise to protect themselves as best they can, including the purchase of a bullet-proof vest. He says he carries only top-of-the-line body armor "guaranteed" to stop any bullet on the market. The models he carries at his shop at 951 W.

Foothill Blvd. resemble the vest from a three-piece suit, but are made of Kavelar — a material so strong that bullets flatten out upon impact.

"A policeman can wear one, and more or less if he gets into (a shooting) incident, he's going to live," Mezquita says.

The Upland resident opened Live or Die Enterprises three years ago to meet the needs of police officers in the West Valley area. Before, they had to drive at least 20 miles to the east or west to buy their equipment — and, Mezquita says, at high prices to boot.

Now, they only have to go as far as Live or Die, where they can buy uniforms, night sticks and a

Fascination with Computers leads To California Computer Schools

For the past ten years, Gail Horton has been involved in the world of education. She began as a teacher in an elementary school district with both upper and lower grades. After four years she accepted a position as a resource specialist, where she had the opportunity to design, develop and implement programs in math, reading and language arts. She moved into an administrative position three years later for the State and Federal Projects department of a school district. During these years she taught undergraduate and graduate level courses at the University of La Verne, Azusa Pacific University, focusing on education, curriculum development and teaching methods.

In recent years Gail has been fascinated with the new microcomputer age.

"Exploring each application and benefit has been like discovering a new frontier," Gail says. As she attempted to locate more teachers or institutions that could develop her skills she realized there exists a tremendous need for microcomputer schools that teach literacy and business applications. Using her educational skills, she began to organize her thoughts into a curriculum. As other people became aware of her computer knowledge, she found herself spending more and more time teaching others, and realized how self-satisfying that was.

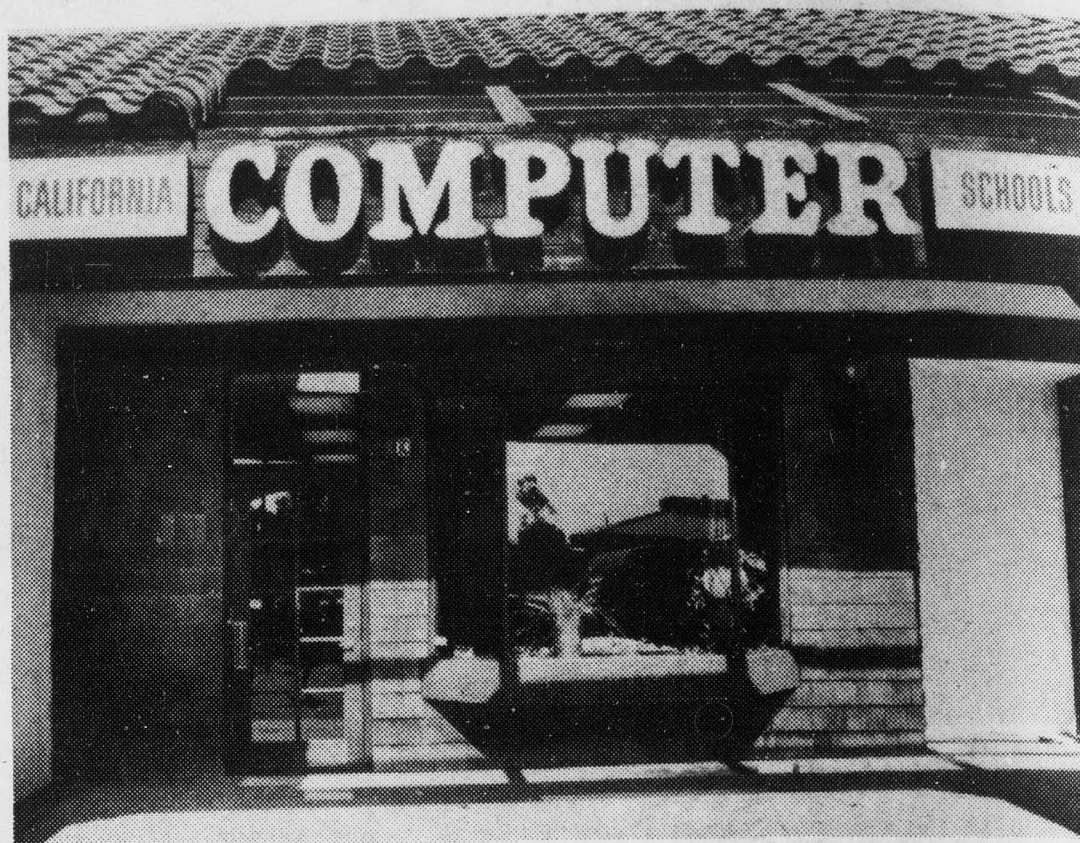

The idea of opening her own computer school, based on proven teaching techniques became a dream. After a year of organization and preparation, she opened her first California Computer School in Upland.

Gail says that what makes her school unique is her method of instruction, which insures rapid success. Lesson materials that allow students to review what was taught after class are provided, and class sizes are limited to eight students at one time, which allows personal attention.

There is one computer per person, and courses cater to the needs of both professional and personal computer users.

Response has been tremendous, Ms. Horton reports. Other California Computer Schools are being opened to meet the need.

The Encino school opened ten weeks ago, with similar success. Schools in Arcadia, Brea, and West Covina will open before September 1.

The California Computer School, located at 1655 North Mountain Avenue in the Upland Northwest Center offers a wide variety of classes in micro computer application.

Beginning microcomputer courses are the most popular.

"People are always amazed at how easy it is to learn and how much they master by the end of the course," according to Gail.

People often think they need prior knowledge, typing skills or a math background, but this just isn't true. We begin from 'square one'; the typing is minimal and math is only used in the accounting and calculator courses.

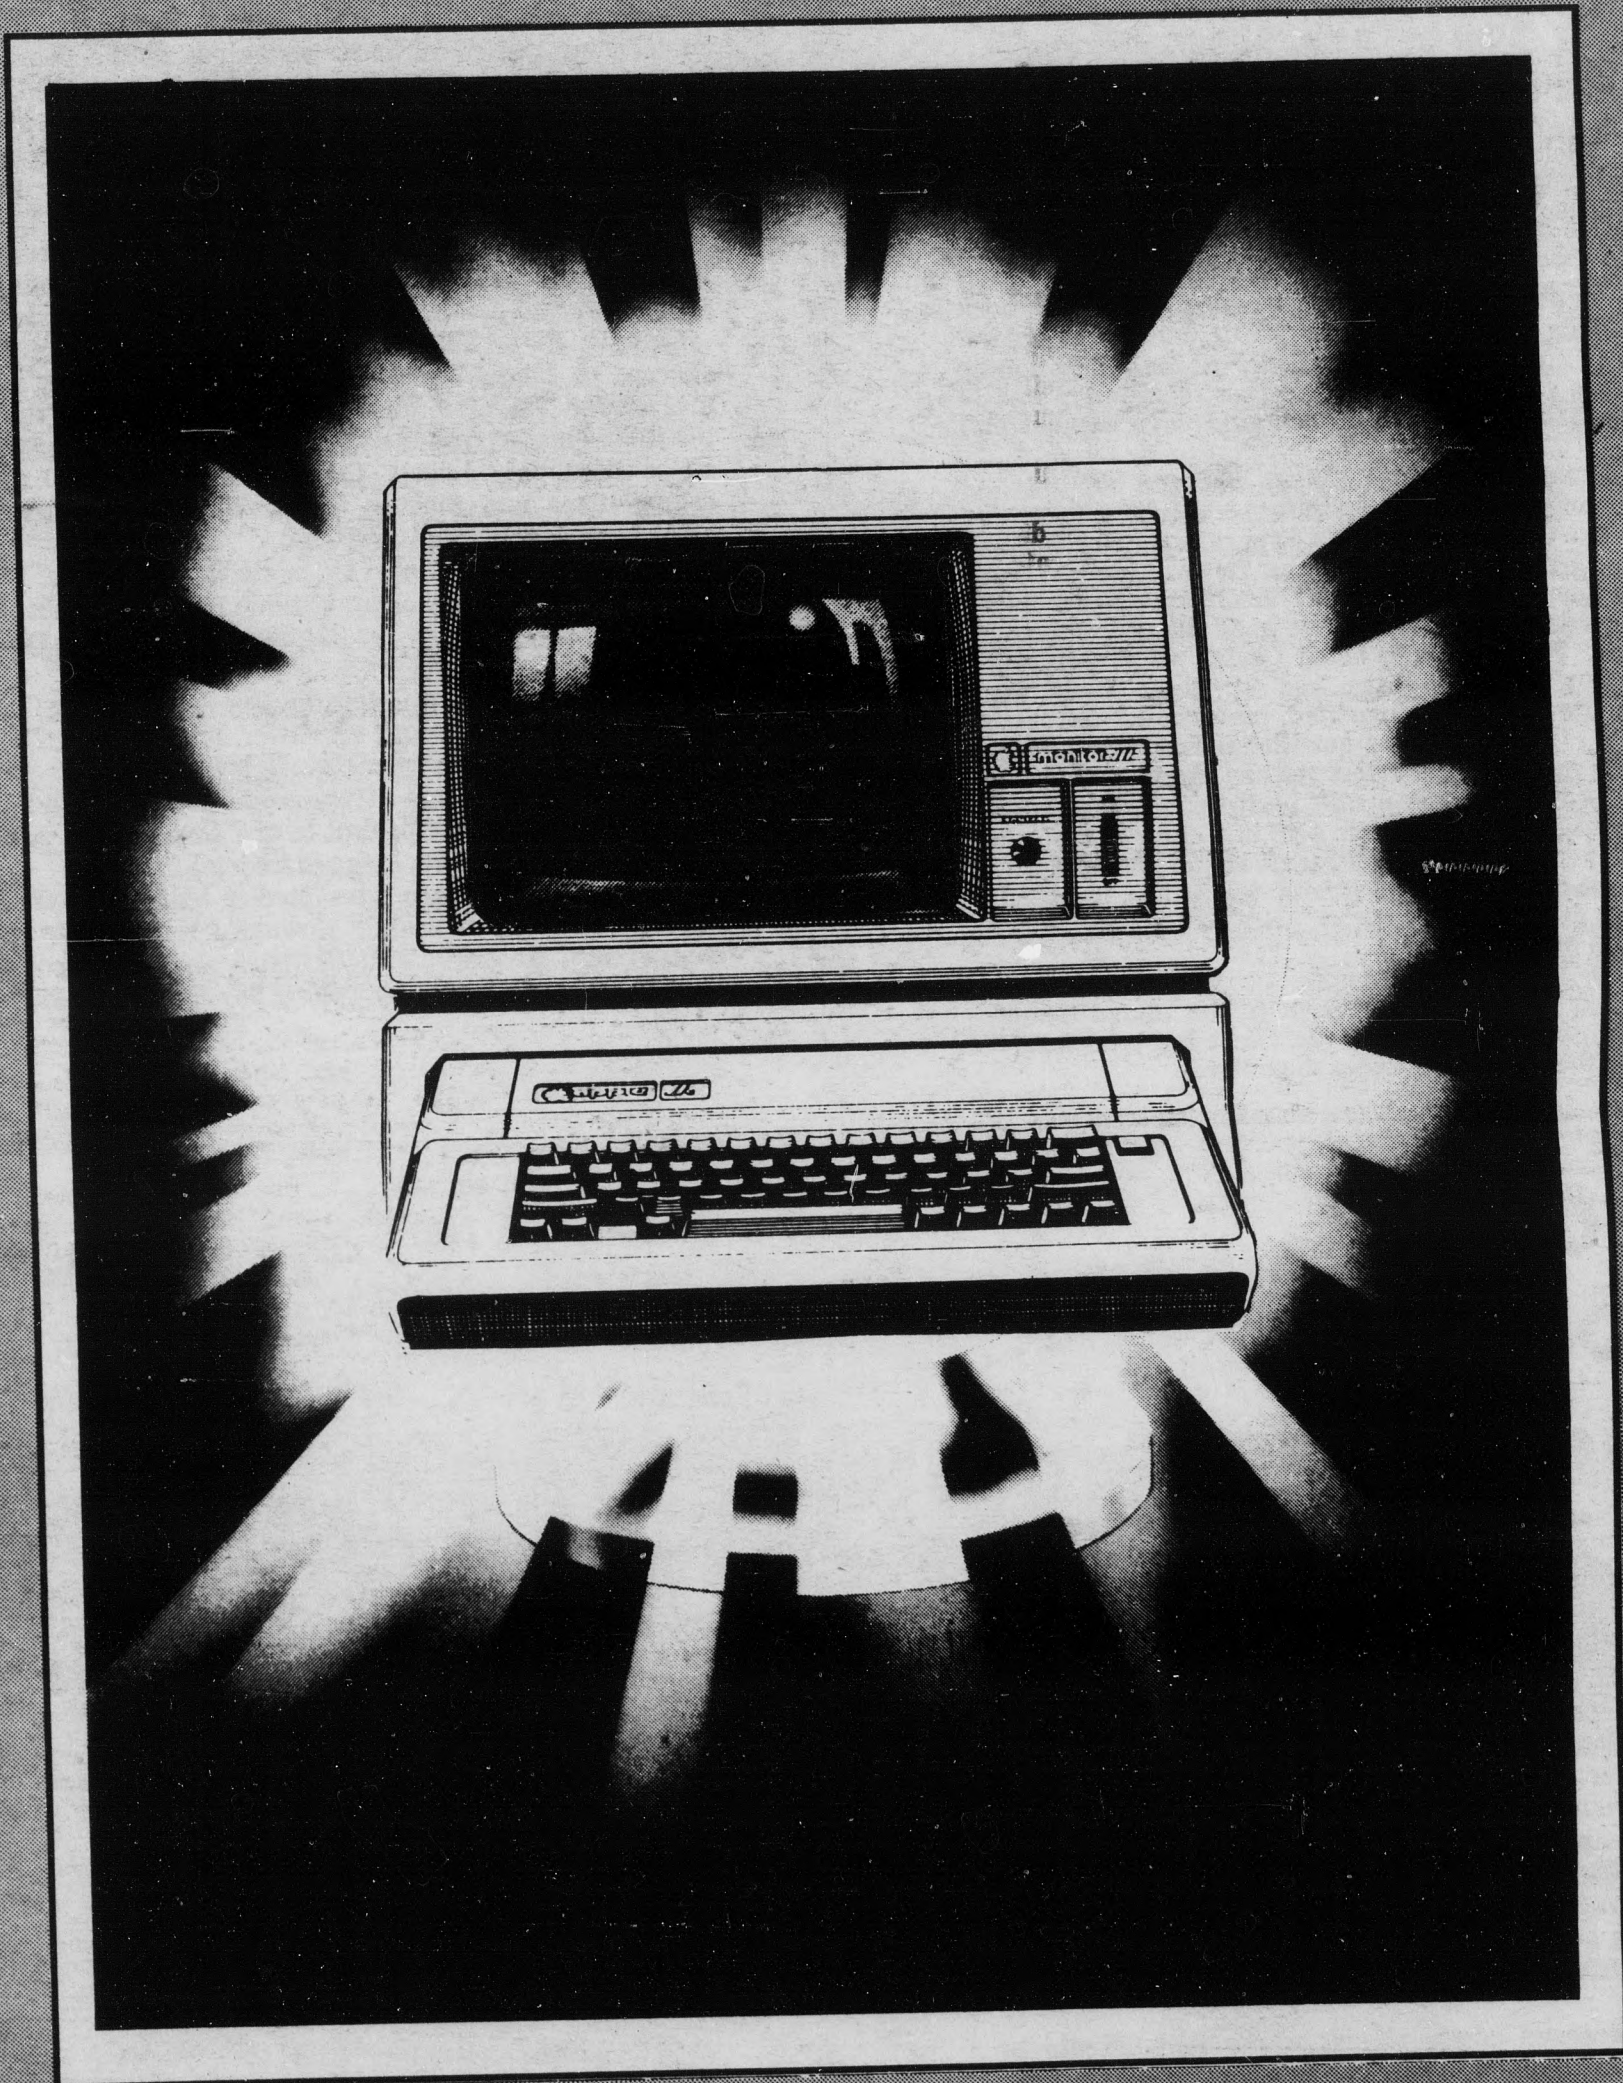

Available courses range from one day to five weeks.

Business classes include Word Processing, Data Processing, Calculations, and Accounting. Programming is also available.

The Old 1,2,3 Is Gone Forever At Star's

Remember when exercise meant 1...2...3...4... and all you heard was heavy breathing, stamping feet and someone screaming, "Now! try the other side"?

Not anymore! Now Star's Aerobicise Fitness and Tanning Center (9605 Business Center Drive, suite N, Rancho Cucamonga) says their center offers exercise in a climate controlled area, to stereo music.

Star's Aerobicise Fitness and Tanning Center is owned by Lynda and Steve Unger of Cucamonga. The Ungers are the parents of three girls, 11 year old identical twins, Valerie and Carrie and 5 year old Tami. Their decision to locate the business in Rancho Cucamonga was based on Lynda's feeling that there was a need for a community minded, reasonable cost aerobicise center where people could receive individualized fitness attention, workout and meet new friends.

Lynda is the active partner in the business. She had been involved in teaching fitness programs for a number of years. Lynda is presently a divisional commissioner on the AYSO Soccer Board. She coaches a Cucamonga girl's soccer team for 11 and 12 year olds. Lynda likes ocean fishing, boating, plays racquet ball and swims.

The manager at Star's is Denise Knight. She and her husband Daniel own the Tanning Hut part of Star's Aerobicise Fitness and Tanning Center. The Knights reside on a 40 acre ranch in Etiwanda and are the proud parents of 2 sons, Jason 11 and Loren 6. Denis has been a Cub Scout Den mother and Team Mother for Little League. She enjoys deep sea fishing, horse back riding and music.

Star's Aerobicise Fitness and Tanning Center offers aerobicise classes for all age levels, both sexes, and all fitness levels. They employ both female and male certified professional aerobicise instructors. Star's offers customers nutritional and diet guidance and can assist with most types of stress release exercise programs. Classes are also available in pre-natal, post-partum, preteen, all stretch and slimnastics. All classes are held in a climate controlled area, decorated to provide a relaxed atmosphere for the members.

To provide for the total look of fitness Star's has installed a tanning booth that uses only UVA lights, with no harmful burning rays which age and dry the skin.

Star's Aerobicise Fitness and Tanning Center feels that they offer the best, most professional, workout in the Inland Empire. They concern themselves with giving the client the total look for success and make them feel good about themselves.

Let Your RV Work For You, Says Larry Hoover

Larry Hoover, owner of Larry's RV's, says that owning a motor home adds up to money in your pocket.

Larry says that he can show you how to let your recreational vehicle work for you in its spare time, by keeping your motorhome rented 20 to 30 weeks out of the year. Larry will show you how to receive investment tax credit, and can provide free storage. Your motorhome can be available for personal use whenever you wish. Larry says he can make it work for you in its spare time, and not just be an expensive toy parked in the side yard.

This is a second career for Larry. In 1982 he retired from a job as auto service manager at a department store in Montclair, and bought the business as it was near his home.

Larry's RV's has four employees and he attributes his success to them. Except for a mechanic, Larry's employees are women. He says they know how to maintain the interior of the motor homes and make for an excellent sales staff. Larry's office manager, Lousie Cramer has brought experience in consignment and leasing to the firm, as well as extensive knowledge in RV supply service.

Larry chose the RV service business because he is a camper. Larry also enjoys restoring antique cars, and fishing. Ask him about the about the 45 lb. Salmon he landed in Oregon a few years back!

Larry is a native of Colorado, but has lived in California all of his adult life. He and his wife, June live in Upland. June works for the Ontario-Montclair School District.

They are the parents of two adult children. Their daughter, Pam Cuccia works with dad in the business. A son, Jeff is a commercial artist for a large industrial firm.

Larry says if you are interested in learning more about how you can earn extra money through renting your motorhome, contact him at Larry's RV's, 8285 San Bernardino Road in Rancho Cucamonga, or by calling 981-3232 or 981-9546.

"Our Gang" Hair Design A Unique Success

Surrounded by snap shots of Spanky, Alfalfa, Buckwheat, Sparky, and other "Little Rascals" are the stylists of Our Gang Hair Designers. Our Gang is owned and operated by Dino Farned of Upland.

Being a fan of the old "Spanky and Our Gang" comedies, Dino felt that the name symbolizes the type of business she runs. All of the people that work at Our Gang are self employed cosmetologists. All work together under the name "Our Gang" to offer clients the best in hair and skin care.

John Jutner introduces clients to cosmetic cleansing for your hair. Cosmetic cleaning removes wax and animal fat buildup caused by heavy conditioners and shampoos. John has studied his craft with leading European hair designers.

Donna Shanks, a graduate of Citrus College, has won awards for styling and cutting of hair. She is a full time stylist at Our Gang.

Lisa Marie, a licensed cosmetologist works with clients to accomplish the 'total fashion look' in hair design, utilizing hair and make-up color, as well as individual skin care consultation.

Debra Gordon is a graduate of Marinellas School of Beauty and began her career at a Beverly Hills salon. Debra specializes in manicures, pedicures, and sculptured and acrylic nails.

Delia Aceves specializes in body cellulite wraps at Our Gang. This service is a unique one for Our Gang clients. Although cellulite wraps are not a miracle way to reduce, they do help a client to achieve a 'total fitness look' while following a nutritional diet and exercise program. Linda Cons, stylist, is a veteran hairstylist and brings vast experience to Our Gang in all aspects of hairstyling.

Dino opened Our Gang in September 1979, in the Laird Industrial Park on Arrow Highway in Montclair. More than just a beauty shop, the members of Our Gang offer complete makeovers.

The Our Gang crew say they are constantly updating their knowledge through continuing education in the field and carry only the finest beauty care products.

A number of members of Our Gang supplement their craft by teaching, and three of the stylists are award winners in their field.

"Every stylist here is very aware of what is going on in the business. We are all willing to attend shows and seminars and continuing education is extremely important to our business," says one cosmetologist.

Alderson / Hoag Insurance Offers Personal Service, Experience

With the Symbol of Superior Service on the door, you know the men inside are ready to meet your insurance needs.

Lowell Alderson and Ron Hoag of Farmers Insurance Group, 7273 Carnelian, just north of Baseline, in Alta Loma, are just those agents.

Lowell is a graduate of the University of California, Berkley, and has done graduate study at La Verne University.

He has spent 20 years in business management, real estate and the insurance business.

Lowell has lived and worked in Rancho Cucamonga since 1973.

Ron brings 10 years of experience in the mobile home business and has been an insurance agent for over seven years.

He is a native of California and a veteran of the U.S. Navy.

Ron and his wife Gail have three children, Carey, Dan, and Bob. They have been area residents since 1976.

Ron is a former Boy Scout Assistant Leader and enjoys golf on his time off.

Alderson and Hoag located their Farmers Insurance Group agency in Rancho Cucamonga because the region's fast growth, and clientele that needed their services in auto, home, fire, and commercial insurance.

Their office is open from 9 in the morning until 6 PM Monday through Friday and from 9 AM to 1 PM on Saturday.

As partners, Lowell and Ron split their time in the office in order to provide an agent on duty for new customers or offer assistance when present customers need help.

Hoag and Alderson feel that no insurance matter is too small for them and they still make house calls.

John Tyser's Rancho Pool Supply Offers Professional Service, Advice

Rancho Cucamonga stays in the swim with Rancho Pool Supply, 7248 Archibald Ave., just north of Baseline, in Alta Loma. Rancho Pool Supply is owned and operated by John Tyser under the motto of, "We want to care for your pool as our own."

John has been in the swimming pool business for 10 years. He was a corporation maintenance supervisor for over 25 years before opening his own business in 1976. He is married and lives in the area.

John offers retail pool supplies, repairs on your pool or spa, complete service, advice on modifications and add-ons, as well as monthly or weekly pool service.

John established his business in Alta Loma 10 years ago because at that time it was virgin territory and the growth potential for this area was very great.

He has 4 employees which John promises will give honest and friendly service.

John is a member of Chamber of Commerce and Elks.

"We always take the time to help customers solve their pool problems and to understand the workings of a home pool. Rancho Pool Supply carries a large inventory of Bio Guard products, recreational accessories, safety equipment, pool parts, and a complete laboratory for testing your water content," John mentioned.

Well Known Chinese Chef Now In Upland

"Hong Kong is noted as a city of fine Chinese cooking. The variety of people from all areas of China brought with them their culinary tastes, interests, and experience, thus giving Hong Kong style its start.

The Hong Kong style food developed and grew in this environment, absorbing the best from the various tastes represented and compromising in some ways to suit the diverse tastes developed into the unique Hong Kong style of cooking." — from Ho's Restaurant's menu.

Becoming a master at this increasingly popular cuisine took Chef Ho Lee Fong many years of practice and dedication.

Chef Ho studied in Hong Kong, where he met several actors from the TV series, 'Hawaii 5-0' who suggested he come to the United States and open his own restaurant. He soon moved to California where he continued his education at the "Chefs de Cuisine" of California, in affiliation with the American Culinary Federation.

About a year ago, while working in Los Angeles, Ho received a phone call from Mayor Tom Bradley, complimenting him on his fine preparation of food. Mayor Bradley also visited Bays Restaurant, in L.A.'s Chinatown, where Ho worked, to enjoy Ho's fine cooking.

Ho Lee Fong now prepares his fine food at his restaurant in Upland. Named for Ho himself, Ho's is located at 817 W. Foothill Blvd. next to the Alpha Beta Supermarket. Ho's serves lunch, dinner, carry-out food, and prepares meals for home and office parties.

A master chef of Hong Kong style Chinese cooking is Phillip Ho owner of Ho's Hong Kong Cuisine.

CJ's Fashions: Emphasis Is On Quality Clothes, Low Prices

Two years ago, Gina Olivera and her daughter Carla Berry started CJ's Discount Fashions, their business philosophy was to offer fashionable clothes at discount prices. That belief still holds true today at their Mountain Avenue store. In the world of the modern career woman, time is an important factor, as is looking sharp.

Gina and Carla realized the need for professional women to be in fashion and have made it their business to provide top name clothes, often the same brand names that can be found in well-known department stores and fashion boutiques, at prices well under the major outlets.

Gina and Carla say they continually visit the fashion mart in Los Angeles to keep current on the latest trends.

CJ's also carries a selection of accessories which can make an outfit look sharp and well put-together.

New merchandise is brought in to the store every week. Gina and Carla, along with store manager Rosemary Wesley, note that unlike many so-called 'trendy' shops, their clothes are versatile and can be mixed and matched into new creations which suit the professional women's lifestyle.

Before opening CJ's, Carla was a student at USC and her mother Gina worked for 17 years at a Kaiser clinic.

CJ's, a member of the Upland Chamber of Commerce, is located at 573 N. Mountain Avenue in Upland, in the Big 5 Sporting Goods Center.

The Red Robe Serves Special Fashion Needs

The Red Robe of Alta Loma is a shop known throughout the valley. The Red Robe is owned and operated by Mary Jo Kohler and is located in the Alta Loma Square, 19th & Carnelian Rancho Cucamonga.

Mary Jo is the wife of Dr. Hugh Kohler M.D. and the mother of three boys and a daughter. Mary Jo and the family come to the area in 1964 from Dallas, Texas. She taught business at the Chaffey High School District for 13 years and upon retiring decided to go into the retail business. The Red Robe features a complete line of fashion wear for women. The unique part of the Red Robe is that Mary Jo is qualified to fit prosthesis for mastectomy patients, and the store carries mastectomy swimwear as well. Mary Jo decided to branch into this service when local doctors expressed their desire to see such a service offered in this area.

Mary Jo has found that people travel from as far away as India to purchase the prosthesis. She also is keenly aware of special fashion needs mastectomy patients may have when ordering her fashion line. The Red Robe provides customers with a large selection of styles and sizes to choose from for that total fashion look. Mary Jo feels that her personal service, beautiful clothes, and assistance in achieving a special fashion look will only make you come back again.

Mary Jo is the past president of the Zonta Club, an organization for executive women. The Red Robe has 5 part-time employees.

Dog Days Of Summer Should Include Visit To Teresa's Fire Hydrant

Be it poodle or pooch, the well groomed dogs of Rancho Cucamonga congregate at Teresa's Fire Hydrant, according to owner Theresa Bond.

Located in the Sunrize Center, 8621 Baseline Road in Rancho Cucamonga, Teresa's Fire Hydrant is a dog grooming parlor, 'beautifying' 18 to 21 dogs in a typical day.

Theresa started out as an employee of the Fire Hydrant, and after two years purchased the business, renaming it Theresa's Fire Hydrant.

The business has grown and now she has one other employee. In order to insure the best look for a customer's dog, Theresa does all small dogs and her assistant Chris works on the larger animals.

Both women are professional dog groomers and profess patience and loving concern for the dogs they work on.

Theresa feels that dog grooming is just part of good pet care habits an owner should have, and because of this she offers discounts to senior citizens.

Theresa is a native Californian, a long time resident of Alta Loma and a graduate of Alta Loma High School.

She and her husband, Melvin have a five month-old daughter, Chrystal.

Independent Electronics: Music To Your Ears?

If you are hearing bells or music as you travel through your neighborhood, it may be a result of the work of Independent Electronics, at 9613 Arrow Route, Suite F in Rancho Cucamonga.

Independent Electronics is owned by Gary Vodarka, a native born Californian. Gary's interest in electronics started as a hobby in high school and became a career when he graduated from Chaffey College with a BA in electronics. Gary first worked in the aerospace industry for a number of years and then decided to go into business for himself in 1974.

He chose Rancho Cucamonga as a site for business as he has always loved this area and the atmosphere of the community. Gary foresaw a surge in growth and knew there were no businesses located here that could provide this kind of service.

Gary is the chairman of the Chaffey College advisory board for Electronics, and an alternate delegate for the California State Electronics Association, and a supporter of a Pop Warner Football team. He is married and his wife, Sandy is active in the management of the business.

Sandy defines her role as manager as being everything from janitor to handling the purchasing and accounting. Sandy hails from Ohio where she attended the University of Cincinnati prior to moving to California. Her love of the area and her belief in the community are as genuine as Gary's.

Gary has continued his interest in the electronics field by recently completing classes in the area of TV production. As Gary's knowledge of the business grew, so has his business endeavors. Gary also operates the Audio-Visual Engineering Recording Company and a complete post production facility.

Independent Electronics offers complete electronic repair service, car stereo installation and sales, auto alarm and paging installations, and VCR repair. The Vodarkas have a staff of six full time and two part-time employees.

Gary believes that honesty is the best policy, and that pride in his work is the key to success in Rancho Cucamonga.

Independent Electronics can be reached at 987-8743.

The Unique And Unusual Can Be Found At Manila Bay

Why settle for an imitation when you can have an original? That's the idea behind Manila Bay Imports, 657 West Central Avenue near Foothill Blvd. in Upland.

Co-owners Jack Parde and Larry H. Shoup shop nearly around the world for their inventory of rattan and wicker, with Parde traveling to the Orient to look for special items to feature in the store.

Larry says, "Being our own designers, many of our products are manufactured exclusively for Manila Bay. Thus, many unique and unusual products are found in our store."

The partners have known each other for nearly thirty years and both have had other businesses before opening Manila Bay in 1982. Originally, the store was wholesale-only and located in Ontario. They opened their retail store in Upland earlier this year.

Both men are long time area residents. Jack and his wife Mila have three children, Durenda, 20, John, 18, and Michael, 10.

Larry and his wife Lillian live in Ontario with Christine, 18, and Larry, 15.

In addition to rattan and wicker, Manila Bay Imports also carries unusual gifts from the far east.

Besides their custom work, Manila Bay has catalogs from major manufacturers to help you select the rattan or wicker pieces you want.

Both men feel their secret to success is that they really care about their customers. "We'll go to great lengths to see they are fully satisfied with their purchase," says Larry.

Manila Bay Imports is open Monday through Friday, 10 AM to 7:30 PM, Saturday 10 AM to 5 PM, and Sunday, 12 Noon to 5 PM. Manila Bay Import's telephone number is 946-1877.

Burt Reynolds Visits Detco Custom Awards

The quality products and exceptional service of Detco Custom Awards, 8617 Baseline Rd., brought Burt Reynolds to Rancho Cucamonga. In 1981 Norman and Judy Painter, owners of Detco, engraved a gold filled plaque for one of the Turbo Trans Am cars used in the filming of "Smokey and the Bandit Part II", which had been re-done and was being given to Burt by the film's producers. There was more to the job than the engraving, as Norman had the opportunity to meet Mr. Reynolds when the plaque was completed.

Detco Custom Awards has a 24 year history in the area. In 1976 the Painters moved their business from Montclair to Rancho Cucamonga. They had been residents of the community since 1965 and they wanted to establish their business in a community they believed in.

Judy and Norman have five children. Jayne, Mike, Chris, Dana, and Scott and been active in Little League, Girls Softball, the Rancho Cucamonga Chamber of Commerce, as well as numerous school activities. Both Norman and Judy are sports minded. Besides coaching softball and baseball, Norman is a member of the Omega Pistol Club where he has placed in the top three of many competitions. Painter hunts, golfs, fishes, is a member of the NRA and The Rancho Cucamonga Elks Club. Judy bowls, shares an interest in many of her husband's sports activities, but at present she chooses to spend her time with their very first grandson.

The opportunity to meet Burt Reynolds has not been the highlight of the business for the Painters. Norman designed and built the first trophy for the Inaugural California 500 pole setter, Lloyd Ruby, at the old Ontario International Speedway. He has received recognition for 8 years of trophy designs for the National Drag Boat Association. Judy has won bowling trophies that were designed and engraved by Norman. The real highlight was 7 months ago when they designed and photo-engraved a plaque commemorating the birth of their first grandson.

Norman designs and engraves the plaques and Judy works on the management side of the business. A visit to their store provides one with many options for special occasions or gift ideas. Besides designing and engraving trophies and plaques, Detco Custom Awards at 8617 Baseline Rd., in Sunrize Center, carries a fine selection of glassware and metal graphics for engraving. Their motto for business success has been; "to provide top quality products and good service 110% of the time."

Even Customers Are Treated Like Family Members At Ninth St. Tire

Tired of looking for a reliable tire service? Ninth Street Tire and Wheel suggests that you "roll on over" to their grand opening, coming in August.

Family owned and operated, Ninth Street Tire and Wheel consists of a six person staff. Jim Strangio, owner, started in the tire business in 1966 with Dunlop Tire Corporation. He was a sales manager for three years in the Los Angeles division, before moving on into business for himself in 1970 at Dick's Tire and Muffler in Ontario. Strangio sold out the next year and opened Dealer Specialties, Incorporated, of which he was president for seven years before selling the firm, later starting Ninth Street Tire.

"Our business is basically a family organization," Strangio comments. Mary Strangio is the bookkeeper, "Little" Tony is shop manager, and Scott is in charge of maintenance.

Warehouse manager is Bob Maletto, with Tony Strangio and Graig Hitch working the tire service side of things. Strangio's sons, Tony, a junior at Upland High School, and Scott, a freshman, are starting out early in following their father's 'tracks'.

Strangio points out that they treat their customers like family members, too!

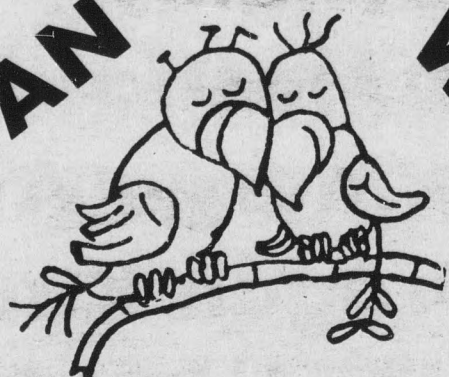

In addition to tire and wheel mounting and balancing, Ninth Street Tire also rebuilds brakes. They carry Goodyear, BF Goodrich, Kelly, Riken, General and Bridgestone tires, as well as American, Raceline, Western, Centerline, and Keystone custom wheels.

Strangio is a member of the Upland Chamber of Commerce and the National Tire Dealers Association. Ninth Street Tire is located at 1076 West Ninth in Upland.

Ninth Street Tire and Wheel, a new business in Upland, offers quality service at fair prices. Pictured here is Craig Hitch Tire Service Specialist.

Love Eggs? Try Houtz and Sons Egg Ranch

The Houtz and Sons Egg Ranch, 6942 Beryl Avenue near Baseline in Alta Loma, began in 1952 when the Houtz family came to California from Wisconsin.

Roy and Richard Houtz started with 2,500 day old chicks following the completion of brooder, grow and lay houses. Their first egg wasn't laid until March of 1953.

Since that day, their business has expanded to cover the orange groves that once surrounded them. Today, about 50,000 chickens are housed in 25 280-foot long lay houses. Between 9,500 and 11,000 young hens are purchased every 4 or 5 months.

Each day, the eggs are gathered and brought to the Houtz family's processing area where they are washed, sized, checked for cracks and deformations, and then packed in cartons. "It costs more to produce a quality egg: better feed, refrigeration, quality control" says a family member.

The Houtz family works hard to maintain the quality of their eggs, and point out that in their 31 years they have never missed buying replacement pullets for their laying flock, which is important if that quality is to be maintained.

From 1952 to 1962, the chickens were fed by hand, but automatic feeders now do the job to accommodate the growth of the business.

Each lay house has sprinklers to keep the chickens cool in summer.

Eggs from the Houtz ranch are used in restaurants, hospitals, rest homes and stores, but the Houtz family also operates a retail store, open to the public. Their store also offers Alta Dena milk, candy, soda pop and other items.

Seven Martial Art Forms Merge At Red Dragon Karate

Sensei Thomas Cosgrove is a 4th degree Black belt and weapons master who owns and operates Red Dragon Karate, 905-B Footill Blvd., Upland.

He explains that the system of Red Dragon is a compilation of the seven major forms of the martial arts: Judo, Aikido, JuJitsu, Shot Kan, Tye Kwon Do, Chuan Fa & Kun Tao and Kung Fu along with all the various weapons for each stike.

One of the amazing things about Karate is its versatility, because of the various sizes and weights of people in the world today.

The martial arts have adapted into areas of specialization. Red Dragon Karate takes the martial arts forms, and molds the systems around the students, instead of molding the students into the system, like so many other styles. The reason for this is that all students will excel in different aspects of the martial arts, for example: Throws, take down, sweeps, power technique, spring techniques or inside closing techniques. Its up to the instructor to find which technique best suits the students. This is why the Upland studio has ten instructors and is a full time martial arts academy.

You may wonder how such a dramatic system ever came about. Grand Master Shidon Sensei began his studios in the orient years ago with the master of each Karate style becoming the most prized student. Over the years he began taking the most effective techniques from each style and combining them in what is now called Red Dragon Karate, now the second largest organization in the nation.

Tire Business Like A Hobby For Bear Gulch's Dean Brodigan

Dean Brodigan of Dean's Bear Gulch Tire Service, 8393 Foothill Blvd., Cucamonga says his business is his hobby.

Dean spends much of his spare time keeping himself informed on the products and changes in the tire business.

Dean's wife Colleen works side by side with her husband at the Tire Service and as a cosmetic consultant. They have two grown daughters Brenda Bekrens and Jaydean Isbell and two grandchildren Kari and Krista Isbell. The Brodigans have lived in the area for 23 years. Dean worked for a local tire company 22 years until purchasing the tire service in Bear Gulch a year ago. The Brodigans decided on the the Bear Gulch location because they liked the Rancho Cucamonga area and believe it to be one of the fastest growing communities in California. Dean is a member of the Upland, Cucamonga and Ontario Chambers of Commerce.

Although Dean and his wife are very active in the business, they employ three other people. The store manager is Mike Kies, who brings six years of experience in the tire business to the firm. Mike is a local resident, married, and father of a son, Michael.

Brian Terry is the mechanic for the firm, he has 10 years of experience in the automotive repair business and specializes in 4 wheel drive and RV repair and service.

Dean's Bear Gulch Tire Service is more than tire sales.

According to Brodigan, they also offer automotive repair services on shocks, load levelers, stabilizer bars, brakes, batteries, transmission repair, lube and oil service, 4 x 4, RV parts and services. Dean's Bear Gulch Tire also carries national brand name products and offer quality service.

Dean's Bear Gulch Tire Service runs under the motto of "When you need service, we're here to serve! Dean's may be reached at 982-6451.

Steve Brown, director of golf for Upland Hill Country Club, enjoys a quiet moment overlooking the ninth hole before the opening of the new course.

Brown ready for opening of Upland Hills

By Dennis Arp

As a youngster, Steve Brown avoided golf the way he now avoids bunkers and water hazards. It's not that he didn't like the sport, it's just that his interests were elsewhere.

The first time he picked up a club was at 19. It took some prodding from a friend who was helping Brown and his wife celebrate their first anniversary to even get him on a course.

It wasn't love at first drive. On hole No. 1, Brown got a 15.

"But before I finished the round, I'd gotten a couple of pars," Brown remembers. "I just kept improving. It was all part of the challenge.

"I've always had the ability to pick things up fast."

In addition to his pars, Brown also picked up an affinity for golf from his first round. In fact, he fell in love with the sport that would eventually become his life's work.

His work has now brought Brown to Upland as the director of golf at Upland Hills Country Club.

The first time he played the front nine at the Upland Hills, Brown shot a 1-over-par 36. His reaction to the brand new facility? "I fell in love with it," he says. "It's ego-building as far as the distance goes but it's challenging around the greens."

The challenge, not so much of the course but of helping to build a golfing environment out of what was once a pile of rocks, is what lured Brown to his job as golf director.

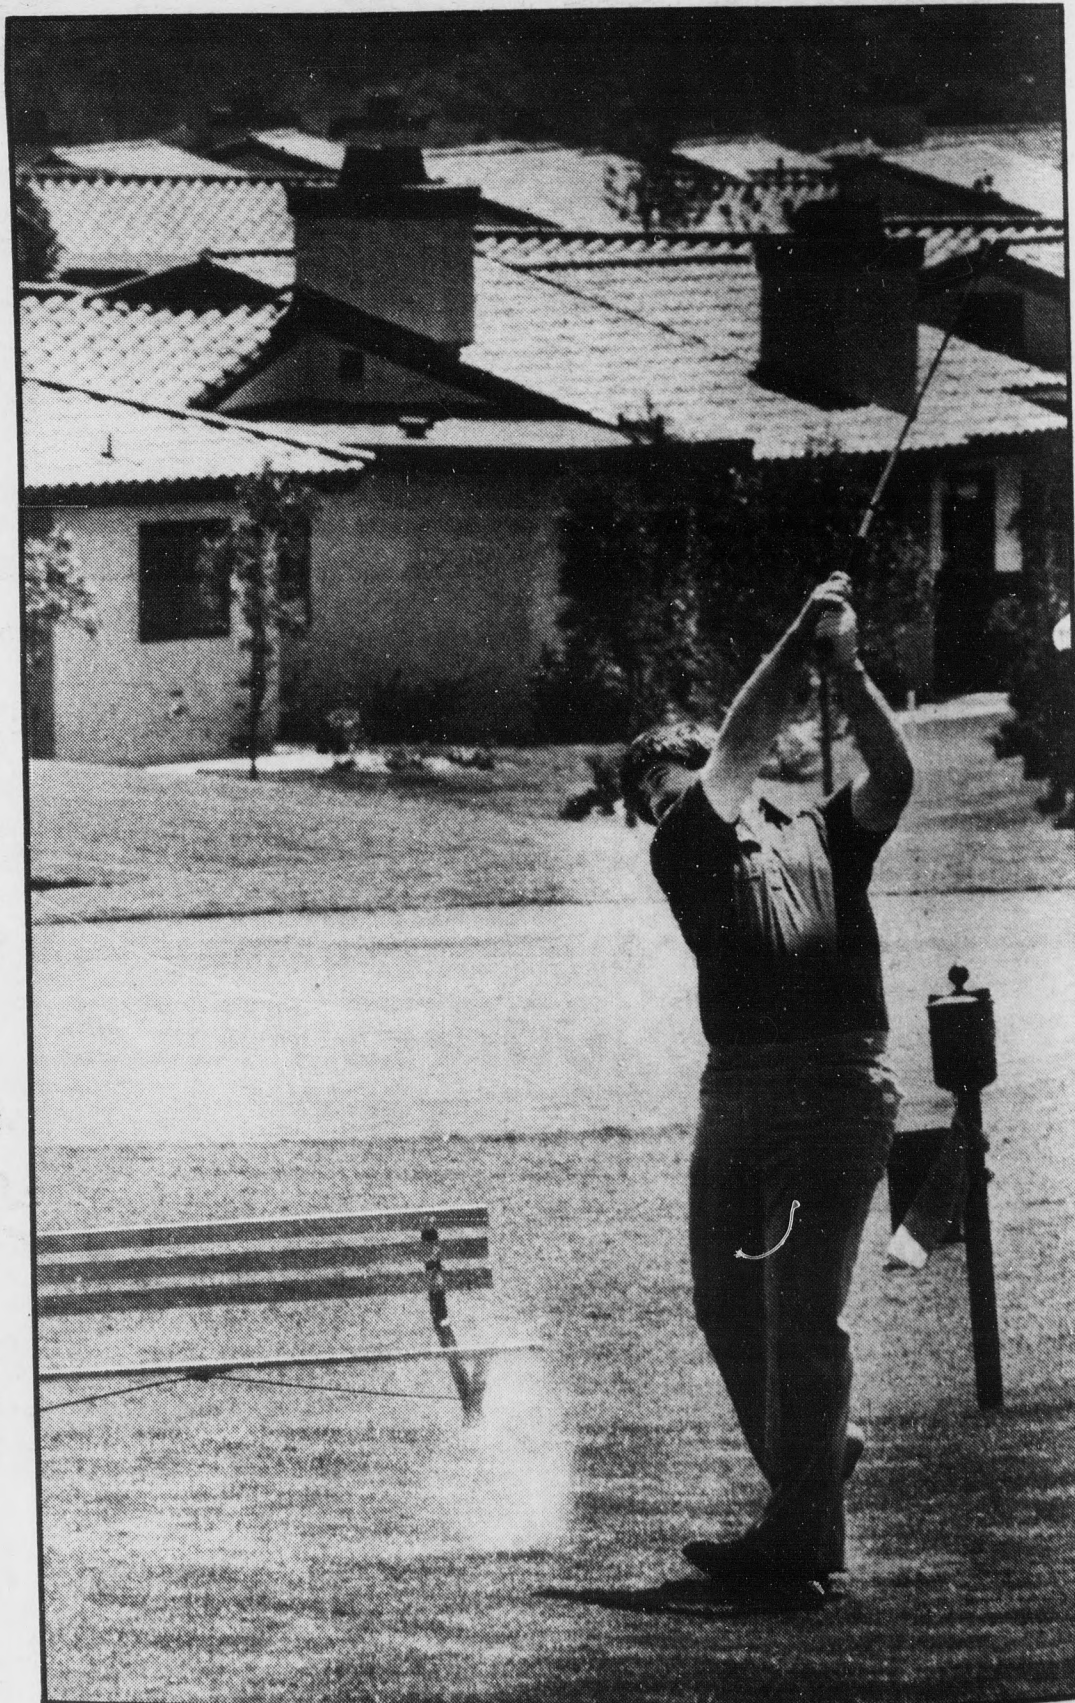

And with Friday's grand opening of the 18-hole public course fast approaching, Brown's ability to pick things up fast has been put to the test.

Spring rains slowed work on the fairway homes community on 16th Street in Upland, delaying a projected June opening for the course. In addition, Brown has only been on the job for about a month. But the Claremont resident says he and the course will be ready.

"It's been hectic, but it's very exciting to open up a new course," says the 34-year-old Professional Golf Association member. "It gives me a chance to initiate things myself. I come with a private club philosophy. That's one of the reasons I appealed to them."

Brown comes to Upland after spending two years as assistant pro at Glendora Country Club. Prior to that he was head pro at Whispering Palms CC in Rancho Santa Fe for six years.

Brown prime for Upland Hills opener

He says his "private club philosophy" translates into service. "Rick (assistant pro Rick Brinsmade) and I were talking about that," Brown says. "If you go to most public courses, they're greens fees factories. There's no personal touch.

"We're going to try to make people feel like they belong. You know when you're at a country club, you have, say, 500 members and you learn everyone's name. We're going to have that kind of atmosphere here."

As director of golf operations, Brown will oversee all activities, from lessons and pro shop operations to tournament scheduling and care for the par-70, 5,700-yard championship course.

A graduate of the PGA's apprenticeship program for professional players, Brown still plays in local tournaments. But from his initial golf days as a three-time-a-week player in Indiana, he knew the Pro Tour wasn't for him.

"That's a decision I made early," he says. "I never wanted to play on the tour. This job can be tough, but they have it really tough. When you play to eat you're in trouble. Anyone with a family can't do it. Twenty people split all the money.

"I can play in local competition and if I lose, I'm only out my entry fee."

Brown, who turned pro at age 26 after some success as an amateur in eastern Indiana, spends much of his time these days as a businessman and teacher.

He was first in his class at the PGA's two business school programs. He also studied business administration at Indiana University.

Of his teaching, Brown says, "I try to make my lessons fun. If you take a person and make the game fun, they'll progress better. I use the basic approach; I'm not technical. My methods are a carryover from those who taught me."

Up until he turned pro, Brown basically taught himself, he says. "I was playing sandlot golf — hit it as hard as you can and hope," he recalls. "As I aged, I had to really learn to use my head."

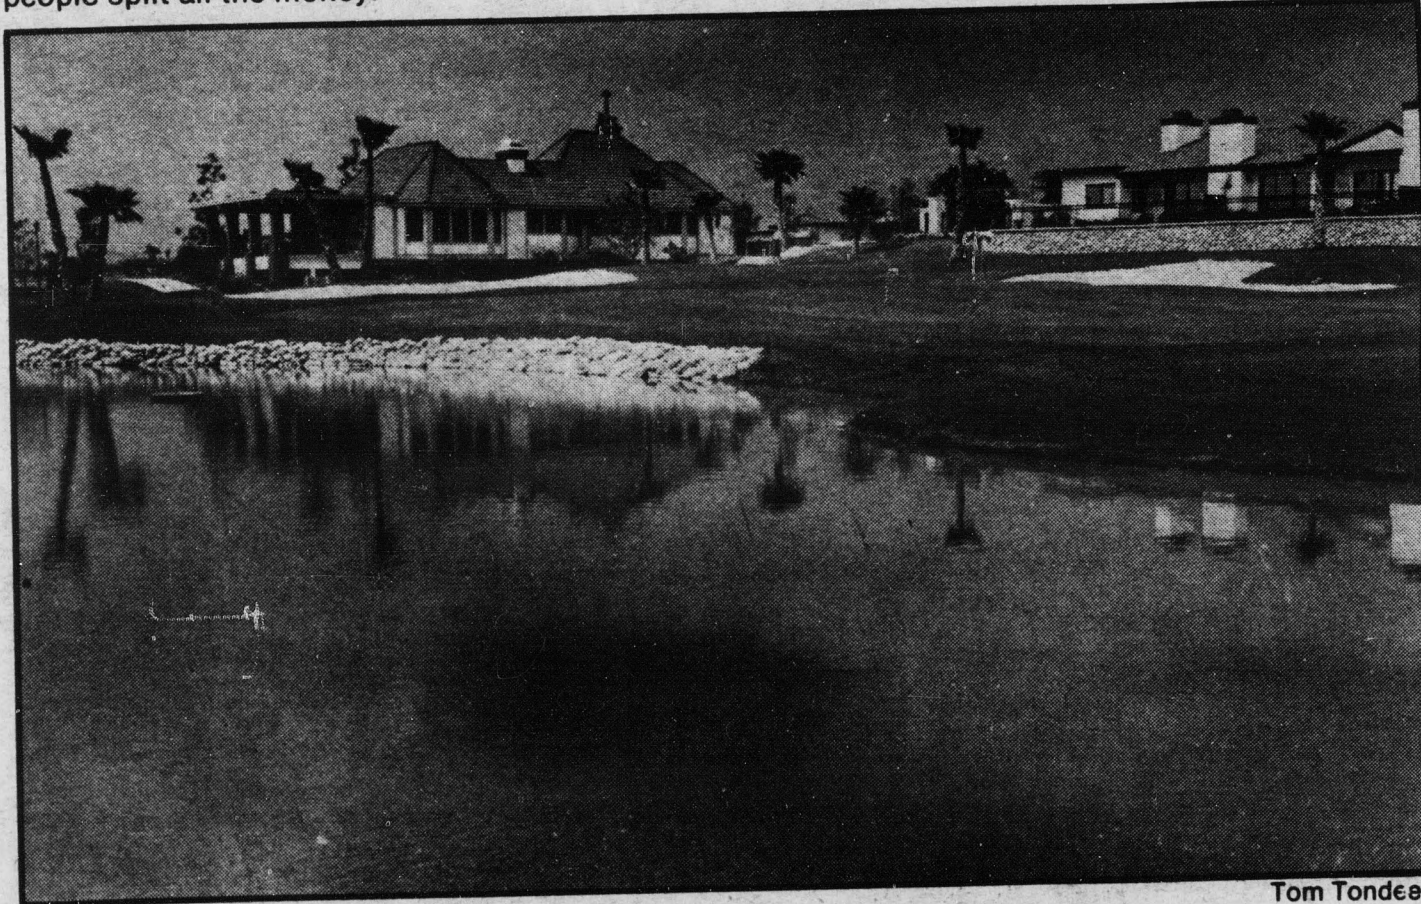

When Brown turned pro, he gave up his commercial real estate position in Indiana. He applied for and got a job as assistant pro at Whispering Palms. "Obviously you don't want to be a golf pro in Indiana if you can help it," he says with a smile.

His decisions to turn pro and move west have left him with some laments, but few regrets.

"It's like any other job when you get right down to it," Brown says. "People think there's a lot of glamour in this job, but there's a lot of hard work and long hours.

"But it's my work and I wouldn't trade it for anything."

Jeff McCall is leaving ALHS for Chaffey College.

McCall new CC cage coach

When the Chaffey College Board of Trustees voted last month to bring back men's basketball, Vice President Dr. Robert Harris made it clear the team would rely on local talent.

"That is my absolute rule: only those in district can play," said Harris, who is in charge of student services. "We will not be recruiting in Detroit."

The edict apparently doesn't stop with players, either. In picking a coach, the school didn't go outside the city.

Jeff McCall, who coached Alta Loma High School the past 12 years, was recently named to head up Chaffey's newly resurrected basketball program. The college is about a five-minute drive from McCall's Alta Loma home.

"In terms of logistics, it couldn't be much better," the 39-year-old McCall said after receiving the appointment. "I've been thinking about a college position for a while and I'm very happy to have this one."

McCall, whose teams amassed an estimated 155 wins and went to the CIF playoffs six of the past nine seasons, will retain his history teaching job at ALHS.

Chaffey's Board of Trustees, which must confirm McCall as basketball coach, meets July 28. Approval of the veteran coach is expected to be a formality.

McCall faces a formidable task. The Chaffey program must be built from scratch with limited resources. The sport had been eliminated along with football in 1980 because the cost of fielding teams was too high. Cuts in other areas of the athletics budget gave basketball new life.

McCall said he is "no miracle worker" and that he "can't make things happen overnight."

"But we'll try to build the same sound foundation at Chaffey College as we did at Alta Loma," he said. "We'd like to get good, quality individuals as well as fine players. We'll get the best players we can come up with and do the best job we can. We'll be representative, no matter what the score is."

Said Bob Olivera, Chaffey athletic director, "There were some very qualified candidates, but the (five-man screening) committee was impressed with Jeff."

"It was the consensus of the committee that he not only had knowledge of the game but also other areas — organization, recruiting and academics."

McCall, who is a graduate of Ganesha High School and Cal Poly Pomona (1967), has begun the search for potential players. "We'll do our best to catch up" in recruiting local talent, he said.

The Panthers will compete in the Inland Valley Conference, as they do in other sports. "We have 18 conference games but we need 10 more games," Olivera said. "The IVBC has been real good about adjusting the schedule."

McCall said it was hard to leave Alta Loma. He said he considers it to be "the finest high school situation in the Pomona Valley."

Kostoff swims vs. Nadadores

Upland's Jeff Kostoff and his Industry Hills teammates will challenge the powerful Mission Viejo Nadadores, among others, at the third annual International Swim Meet, which begins Friday at Industry Hills and Sheraton Resort in the City of Industry.

The three-day event, which runs through July 24, will also feature swimmers from several foreign countries, including New Zealand.

World Champion Ricardo Prado and Tiffany Cohen lead the Nadadores swim team.

How's Your Hearing?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation, your authorized dealer may call. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Department 38136, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Libraries can help in times of economic crisis

By Maureen Bartolotta

"Libraries will get you through times of no money better than money will get you through times of no libraries." This 1981 slogan of the American Library Association really hits the mark in these times of economic hardship.

With rising costs and dwindling resources, many people have discovered the great "deals" available in the library. Your public library can save you money in a variety of ways and we invite you to share in these bargains.

Library news

According to Publisher's Weekly, March 3, 1983, the (preliminary) average price of a non-fiction book was $23.13. Think of all the money to be saved if you checked with the library instead of purchasing books. If you're interested in an item not in our collection, we'll do our best to get it for you.

If you're considering a major (or minor) purchase, various consumer publications such as Consumers Index or Product Evaluations can help you make the best choice. In case you've already made a less than perfect choice, other books and publications can help you contact companies and

Though it may look like a Mohawk in reverse, the new hair style Bryan Troutman, 12, wants is called a flat-top with fenders, which is semi-balding.

Hair.

Long, short, curly, straight, braided, and now, shaved off. If the West Valley teens are any indication, the flat-top is back.

A hair-style can make or break the social career of most teenagers, and whether the result of the recent heat-wave or peer pressure, local kids have decided long hair is out.

Emerging from Smothers' Barbers in Upland, Jim Martinez, 12, and Dan Perryman, 14, stopped to admire their short, but not cropped, cuts in a store front window.

"Flat-tops are for rock-a-billies - we're mods," said Perryman, referring to the current teenage social stratum.

Whatever niche the two apply themselves to, Martinez's father, Ron Martinez, likes the short styles "a lot better than the hippies."

And regardless of the social significance behind current hairstyles, Ed Smothers of Smothers' Barbers enjoys the business.

"Maybe it's the hot weather, but in the last 10 years we haven't done as many flat-tops as we've done in the last month. This morning at least five or six kids went from long to short," Smothers said.

Though the customers seem confident of his ability, Smothers admitted that the flat-top is one of the hardest styles to create.

"There's no margin for error. It sounds easy but it isn't," he said.

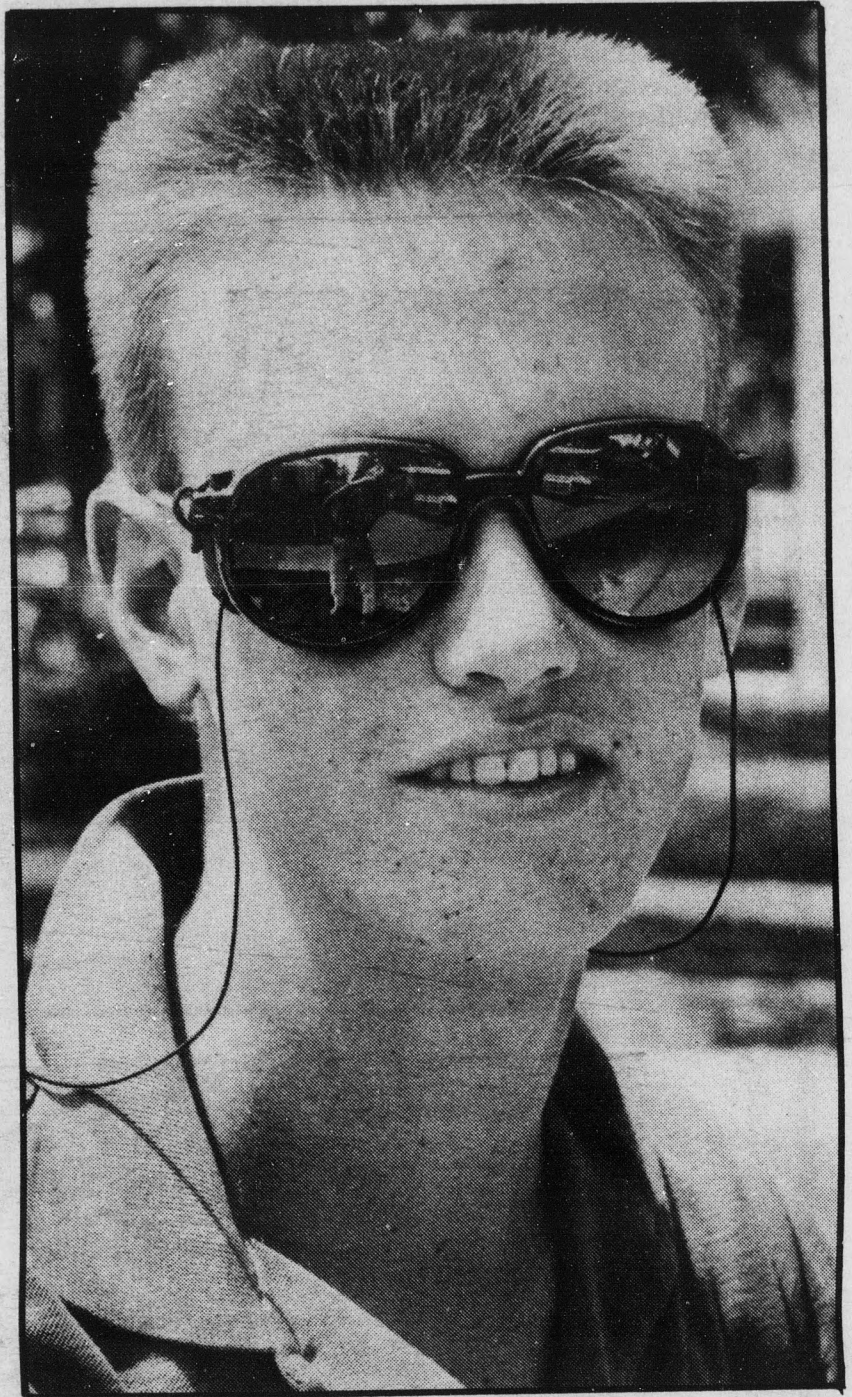

He quickly added, however, that no youngster asking for a flat-top had to leave with a baldy sour. □

With no margin for error, Ed Smothers of Smothers' Barbers puts a few finishing touches on Troutman's rear fender.

The FLAT TOP is back

and Kathy Frey

Jeff Willard, 17, believes his flat-top represents a return to both the fashion and morals of the fifties.

Mark and Bryan Troutman, however, seem to have little interest in making a social statement with their new cuts.

Author recalls playing between the cracks

By John H. Nicholson

When I was still a wee tad of a lad, Mom was a member of the Ladies Aid Society at the old Upland Methodist Church. The ladies met in the afternoon, a couple of times each month. Sometimes it was at the church, or often at a member's home.

While discussing how to be helpful somewhere, they embroidered, crocheted, or did tatting, and may have even passed judgment on any late gossip. I am sure that they never started or passed on any of that.

On those days, Mom seemed to want me to come there after school, and linger around, until time to go home with her. She probably didn't want me to go home and foul up something there. When they met at the church, I usually found a way into "Crowell Hall," across C Street from Hottel's Furniture, now.

There was a fine old foot pumped organ, with lots of stops, and about 88 keys. I loved to drone away on it, not knowing one note from another, but

Our newest addition to Comstock Estates, The Bonanza is the perfect home for a growing family. The ceramic tiled entry leads to the living and dining rooms with spectacular cathedral ceilings. In addition to Comstock Estates' deluxe amenities such as a greenhouse garden window, dishwasher, range and oven with circulating fan and hood, the spacious kitchen comes with a microwave oven and a built-in desk. The over-sized family room features a cozy fireplace and wet bar, and leaves plenty of room to entertain or simply relax. The deluxe laundry room is sure to make mom's life easier. A fifth bedroom (or den, sewing room, library) completes the first floor.
BUT WAIT — There's more... A soft glow from the built-in skylight dramatizes the solid hardwood staircase leading to the second floor. The master bedroom comes with a separated full bath and walk-in closet. Another full bath and three more bedrooms insure plenty of room for an active family.
IF THAT'S NOT ENOUGH... dad will appreciate the three-car garage. A home for a lifetime, truly The Bonanza.

Libraries contain books on finding the right job consumer organizations in order to attempt to rectify the situation.

Our collection includes many titles which can explain your rights to a variety of benefits — unemployment, social security, and veterans to name a few. Self-help books can assist you in doing your own divorce, bankruptcy, wills or explain small claims court procedures. Even if you don't choose do-it-yourself, you can optimize the money you're spending by knowing your rights and what you're entitled to. Your Rights to Social Security Benefits and The Unemployment Benefits Handbook are but two examples which can provide you with the information you need to help solve your problem.

Books on scholarships, grants, and fundraising are always popular subject areas, but we seem to be using them more and more lately. Job flyers and company directories can help the unemployed locate jobs while books on preparing resumes and interview techniques can help get jobs. The Southern California Job Bank and Career Opportunities Update are two excellent sources for locating job opportunities. Many people find books on starting a small business, alternative careers and making money at home to be very helpful.

Live or Die is the name of the game

host of other accessories that only a police officer could love.

Mezquita says he chose to use the name Live or Die in part because "nobody ever forgets it," but mainly because he sells items essential to an officer's survival. While the title may lead some to believe that the shop is a supply depot for survivalist and militarist types, Mezquita says he is very careful about whom he sells the items to. In fact, there are few things in the shop that can legally be purchased by the general public.

Uniforms and night sticks are identified specifically with police officers and cannot be purchased by just anyone. There are a few devices that can be bought for a person's self-protection, but most of what Mezquita sells is limited to cops, security officers, some military and even postal workers.

An item that had long been popular both among police officers and attorneys was a miniature electric chair modeled after the "real thing" used in the state of New York. When an unsuspecting person attempted to lift the "toy," it would send a small, 9-volt charge surging through the "victim's" fingers. Apparently, Mezquita says, the chairs are no longer being manufactured.

For the most part, Mezquita is interested in preparing area police officers in the best manner — and at the best price — possible. A former body guard to a number of movie and television stars, he hopes to spend more time in the shop after he retires. At the present, wife Mary runs the shop when he is on duty.

Mezquita says he doesn't need the extra money that the shop brings in. But by keeping it open, he expects to stay in close contact with other officers after he retires. Business is always good, he says, even during a recession. Police will always need the items he sells, and he plans to enlarge the smallish shop by expanding into some available space next door.

"It is a specialty store, so I don't have to worry about it," Mezquita says. "People would come to me if I was in a closet." □

Guides to food co-ops, discount buying and smart shopping are always in demand. Careful planning can help cut the expensive cost of travel. We have many travel guides, hotel/motel books and toll-free number directories. For those who can't travel far, we have a very good collection of books on day or weekend trips in Southern California, many specializing in attractions that are free or of particular interest to children. Those who plan to do all their traveling from an armchair can visit the far corners of the globe through our collection.

Inquire at the library for (free) children's programs, slide shows and video-disc presentations. Come to the library to check out books, magazines, records or cassettes.

These are a few of the ways we know we can help, but there are many more. Let your imagination be your ticket to savings at the library. □

Summer classes filled to capacity

By Matt Coker

One might think it would be easier to get students to dance across a mine field than step into a classroom during their vacation.

But Rancho Cucamonga summer school programs are packed.

Local classrooms are filled with seventh-graders who failed proficiency exams and children of migrant farm workers who missed weeks of the regular school year.

Since last year, the number of Chaffey Joint Union High School district summer school students has doubled in courses offered through the University of La Verne at Upland, Montclair and Alta Loma high schools.

Students pay up to $150 for a class which can be used to make up a failed course or get a jump ahead on next year's studies. The university offers the program at 33 school districts throughout the state.

More than 500 students are enrolled in the program, according to Mark Le Brun, an assistant principal in San Diego who coordinates the summer school. A number of Upland High students are being accommodated at Alta Loma High School where chemistry, driver's education and typing are offered.

Above, Alta Loma High School chemistry teacher Tom Curley announces test results to a less than enthusiastic class of summer school students.

Tom Garnella finds time to do it all

Tom Tondee

Whether he is sitting on a board or presenting recommendations to one, Tom Garnella seems at ease discussing the present state of educational finances. The San Antonio Heights resident said he would feel much more at ease if state school funding was clear.

"I prefer small districts rather than large because larger districts are so compartmentalized. With John McClary (Central's assistant superintendent) on vacation, I'm doing personnel. At a larger school district I wouldn't be able to do it. Here I know the principals and the staff very well and I'm finally close to home."

Garnella said he sought the vacant Chaffey College board position after being approached by members of the college community, which has been the site of volatile change since Proposition 13 reduced community college revenues.

Soon, Garnella will have to declare whether he will seek another term on the college board in the November elections.

"I'm concerned about the college and I think my background can provide experience in education to the board and the college as a whole."

At one time, a position on a district's board of trustees was often used as a springboard for higher political aspirations. While Garnella admits the thought of running for the state Legislature has crossed his mind, he is not in a position to take a cut in pay at this time, he said.

"My goal is to be with this district for quite some time," Garnella said. His contract extends through June of 1985. □

Clowning around improves man's lot in life

Life in the rugged Indian territory of Oklahoma was dismal in the early 1900s.

Farmers struggled to produce food, but often were foiled by devastating rain and hail storms. "There just wasn't much to eat," recalled Pomona resident Cecil Cochran.

Deciding to improve his destiny, Cochran ran away from home and joined the circus.

The year was 1919 and Cochran was just 14 years old when he hopped a freight train. After riding the rails for many miles, he wound up in Junction City, Kan., where he signed with the Sells Flota Circus.

The job paid 50 cents a week and provided board and room. Cochran "was glad to get the eats — we stuffed ourselves," he said.

Thus the boy from the Oklahoma panhandle began a career as "Cecil the Clown" that lasted more than half a century.

He became the first clown on ice and performed with skater Sonja Henie. He learned "a few tricks of the trade" from clown Emmet Kelly. But for the most part Cochran developed his own act.

One "old clown" offered advice that Cochran claims is chiefly responsible for his longtime success.

"You don't have to have any special talent or special tricks. But you must shake hands with every child and convince 'em you're a special friend," the clown admonished.

Cochran, a jovial man with a robust laugh, recalls how the clowns joined calliopes, wagons, elephants and the entire circus menagerie in

Summer school offers chance to make up work

The university collects the tuition, but in turn rents the facilities from the district and pays the teachers, who are usually district employees.

"It's really an intensive, in-depth program," Le Brun said. "With all the class time (four hours per day) and homework, our biggest complaint is that the students really have to buckle down to get through the class in that short amount of time."

Less supervision is required than during the regular school year, Le Brun said. "They either do their work and pass or lose their money."

Some would think an average teenager would be thinking about the beach during class, but ALHS chemistry teacher Tom Curley, who has taught in the program for two years, disagrees.

The attention level of students is not difficult to maintain during the six-week course because "there are no interruptions," Curley said. "During the school year, there are a number of interruptions like call slips from counselors and notes from student government. During the summer there are no bells, so you don't find students looking at the clock waiting for the bell to ring."

As for his own attention level, Curley said the money more than makes up for any inconvenience.

David Postman, 15, an Upland student, is taking the chemistry course this summer at Alta Loma because the regular year teacher at his school "is too hard."

Scott Bernal, 16, who is staying with his mother in Upland but will attend a Victorville high school in September, said "it is so hard to have to rush through, but it is easier because we don't go into specific detail."

But Bernal isn't complaining. "I'd take six weeks over nine months anytime," he said.

Karla Muni, 16, another Upland High chemistry parades to announce to villagers and cityfolk throughout Canada and the United States that the circus had come to town.

"More people came to watch the tent go up and down than were under the top," he chortled. "We'd let poor kids sneak in."

With a gleeful chuckle, Cochran related how the circus crowd devised several tricks to relieve farmers of nickels and dimes.

"We'd get a big oak barrel, put a half dozen oranges in it and then fill it with ice and citric acid. Barkers would announce 'all you can drink for 10 cents,'" Cochran explained.

The farmers would flock to buy the so-called orange drink. But "they'd soon back off — many got sick from the cold ice and the citric acid," he said.

Cochran recalled another "trick" used to fool the farmers. A circus worker would stand outside the gate with little toy monkeys on a stick. These would be handed to each child. Another worker would stand inside the tent and demand a dime payment for the toys.

"My those farmers would jump high. They thought the monkey was free," Cochran recalled.

The circus often sold baby turtles and chameleons. Children begged for these "little critters," while mothers "had a fit," Cochran recalled.

Usually, however, the mother reluctantly agreed to purchase one of the little creatures.

"I'd always tell the kids to watch that mother. 'She's got a mean streak and just might try to flush that chameleon,' I'd say. My, how the mothers would glare," Cochran remembers.

In 1939, Cochran "wintered" in California. He was selling ice cream at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena when he met a South Dakota-born beauty named Maxine. "It took awhile but I finally convinced her to marry me," the former clown said.

Mrs. Cochran traveled with her husband until their first child was born. The couple has two sons and one daughter, 12 grandchildren and twin great-granddaughters.

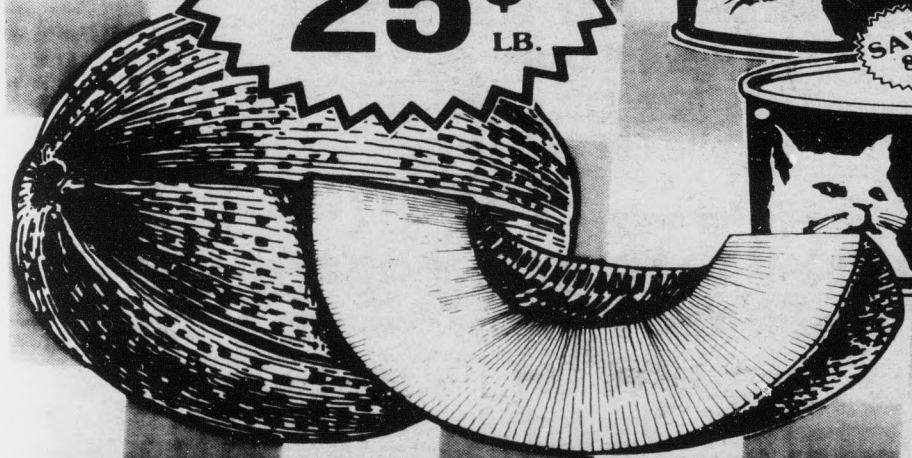

The family settled in Oakdale, but Cochran continued to go "on the road" each summer. He worked with Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey; Royal American; Clyde Beatty and "many, many

What are you doing to beat the heat?

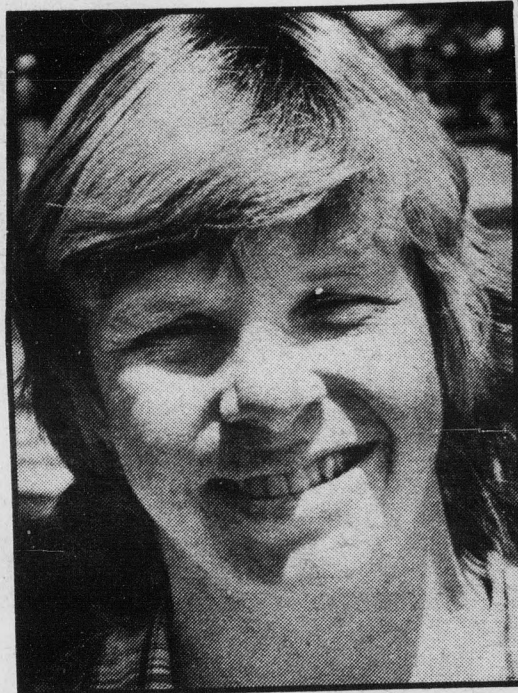

Don Burles, Upland: We close the house early in the morning and don't open it until late afternoon. This way we haven't had to use the air conditioner.

Dorothy Engel, Upland: We eat lots of fruits, salads and forget cooking as much as much as possible. We also try not to use the air conditioner — I hate the sound of it.

Dorothy Gilman, Upland: Staying indoors is the best bet because the smog bothers me. We're using a fan rather than an air conditioner because electric bills are too high.

Victoria Winslett, San Antonio Heights: We pull all the shades and we're going to get a fan. We've opened our attic to let the heat circulate.

Sweet Adelines' officers advised to 'make tracks'

Gifts and harmony welcomed the Sweet Adelines' Pomona Valley Chapter new officers at their recent installation.

Glenda Smith, organization president, was presented a crystal rose bowl. Other board members were given gifts and tennis shoes to "make tracks" for the members to follow through the year; singing, learning and working together in planning musical events for the Pomona Valley Community, according to Betty Cramer, publicity chairman.

"Sounds Great" and "Galaxy West," regional quartet champions, entertained the Sweet Adelines at the installation.

Members of these quartets include Glenda Lee, Joyce Waters, Dee

DeFrank and Sue Lee, 1982 regional winners; and Doreen Keepers, Charlotte Nelson, Key-Beth Kunsaitis and Janet Salisbury, 1983 regional quartet winners.

New Sweet Adelines board members include Martha Owen, vice president; Norma Standard, recording secretary; Betty Pierce, corresponding secretary and Marge Tichy, treasurer.

The board's support group for the new year includes Dee DeFrank, Luan Dieterich, Lori Myers, Charlotte Nelson, Mary O'Neil, Florence Weiser and Billie Snedecker, Cramer said.

Glenda Lee, who sings lead in the quartet of installing officers, is the group's contact person for the chorus' 70-member performances. She may be reached at 597-3654.

ENTERTAINMENT & DINING GUIDE

Now that the last week of my vacation has become history, it's time get get down to serious business. After a fantastic week of just relaxing and playing a lot of golf it was tough getting into the swing of things.

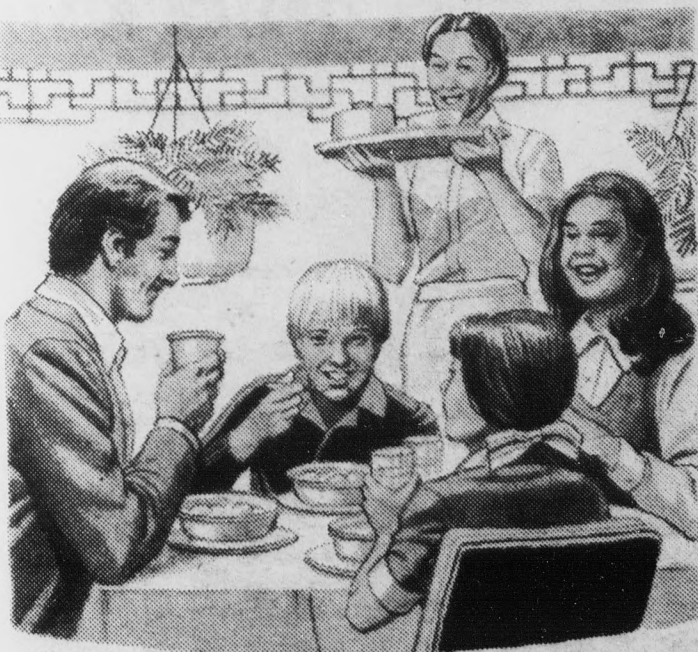

Friday the 8th of July was one of my very favorite outings of the summer. We went to the Pageant of Masters in Laguna. While viewing the various tableaux of famous art works I found it hard to believe that the people depicted in the scenes were real live models who have become part of a living canvas. If you should ever have the opportunity to view this spectacular presentation please don't pass it up, it's really something to see.

Sixteenth anniversary greetings are in order for the Cask 'n Cleaver restaurants, an operation that started right here in Rancho Cucamonga and steadily grew until now there are more than 30 restaurants in California. The three in our area are at 12206 Central in Chino, 125 N. Village Court in San Dimas and in Cucamonga at 8689 Ninth St. Visit any one of them for either lunch or dinner, you'll really enjoy the atmosphere as well as the delicious food.

Di Censo's Ristorante Italiano at 1651 W. Foothill Blvd. in Upland has introduced a completely new and exciting luncheon menu. No matter if your luncheon demands are light or medium, this is the place that will cater to your special whims. Some examples of the menu offerings are appetizers such as roasted pepper & anchovies, melon and prosciutto and calamari cocktail. The salads are equally as interesting consisting of marinated fennel hearts and bay shrimp or the tomato with mozzarella and onion. If you're a true pasta lover, then this is the place for you. That's all I'm going to tell you about it, you'll just have to drop in at Di Censo's and see for yourself, but there's one thing I must tell you, half orders are available on request.

Mr. Steak at 1130 N. Mountain in Upland is presenting nightly specials just for you. Watch the Daily Report each evening to see what the special for the following day will be, then you can plan ahead to dine out while saving a bundle of money in the process.

If staying up till the wee hours of the morning is your cup of tea then you'll really enjoy the midnight shows on either Friday or Saturday at the Montclair Plaza Cinemas. Currently they're showing Pink Floyd The Wall, Clockwork Orange and The Rocky Horror Picture Show. Tickets go on sale at 11:30 p.m., the theatre is in the Montclair Entertainment Center at 4955 S. Plaza Lane in Montclair. Until next week Bon Appetit!!

Pizza: whether traditional pepperoni or newfangled vegetarian, it's still a treat

By Terri Tirella

Take a few scrapes of bread dough, add tomato sauce, cheese and a piece of salami or pepperoni and what have you got? A soggy sandwich? No, pizza!

Pizza, meaning pie in Italian, is said to have been invented in Naples sometime in the 18th century and hasn't changed much since then, according to local pizza makers.

Neither have customers' tastes. Pizza sellers agree pepperoni is the pizza most often ordered. After pepperoni comes sausage and then the house special.

According to Dominic Ancona, manager at Noble Inn, an Italian restaurant in Upland, teenagers order pepperoni pizza more often than older customers, who tend to favor the house special with everything.

"Young people are not experienced food eaters and haven't acquired the taste for different flavors," Ancona said.

Gaining popularity in the pizza world is vegetarian-style pizza, featuring all toppings except meat. According to pizza makers, a vegetarian pizza is the dieter's favorite, comparable to light beer. "When there is more meat (on a pizza), all the oils cook out, making the dough heavy" and adding calories, according to Dave Novac, general manager for Numero Uno in Rancho Cucamonga.

At Nicastro's, a family-owned Italian eatery, artichoke hearts are offered on the vegetarian pizza, as well as a choice

Pizzamakers pile everything on to satisfy a hungry public doesn't have a specific style of pizza.

"New York style is a famous type of pizza, featuring a thick crust with lots of mozzarella cheese. We make our pizza the same as it's made back east in New York," Dadrass said.

Pizza makers have likened Numero Uno pizza with Chicago style. "We don't like to be compared to Chicago style ... it's very oily and served in the pan," Novac said. He said the only similarity between Numero Uno pizza and Chicago style pizza is that both are served from a pan.

At Noble Inn, crust dough is made by hand and rolled out in a round, Sicilian-style, 16 by 16-inch pie. At Numero Uno, the dough recipe is kept secret, even from the employees.

"We complete the process of kneading and stretching the dough," Novac said. "It's a two-step process. We pre-bake our crusts to let the bread dough rise. Then we add the ingredients (toppings) and bake a second time."

Other pizza secrets include sauces. At Rocky's Pizzeria, Dadrass mixes his sauce himself, using a red sauce and a can of "magic" sauce along with a variety of spices.

Sauce is made five gallons at a time at Noble Inn, with fresh oregano and basil. At Nicastro's, the sauce recipe is a well-kept family secret, according to Frank Nicastro. "We make our own sauce with everything fresh ... we don't use any canned stuff." While Californians may not have their own style pizza, they do have an influence on some of the toppings offered, including jalapenos, pineapple and cashews.

A topping familiar to pizza connoisseurs is anchovies, small, herring-like fish. "Anchovies are not too popular. Not many people like it. But we offer it anyway," Dadrass said.

Pizza vendors say everyone likes pizza. Pizza is not the junk food parents might think. According to the American Medical Association, pizza prepared with lots of meat, sauce, cheese and tomatoes has good food value.

It is a good source of protein and calcium and contributes its share of iron, vitamins A, C and B complex. □

Tom Tondée
Brian LeMaster, who will be a sixth-grader at Cucamonga Junior High School starting September, types in "Jet Ski's Rule!" during his summer computer class.

La Verne University sponsors high school summer program student, believes the program is "just like college is going to be. Some classes are going to be this long and this is a good prep for college."

The course ends July 29 and Postman, who wondered if this story is going to be titled "Prison Life," said there is one thing he can't wait to do when summer school is over.

"Sleeping in, that's what I miss," he said.

The kindergarten-through-eighth-grade Etiwanda School District offers two programs during the summer.

One is for seventh-graders, who failed to pass the yearly proficiency examination, which is a test of math and language arts required statewide. The other, recognized by the state for excellence, is for children of migrant farm workers, who were displaced during the regular school year. Many of their parents moved about during different picking seasons.

Manuel Bocanegra, the coordinator of both voluntary programs, said there are about 40-45 students in the migrant section and 30-35 who failed the proficiency examination.

"There's no problem with attendance,"

Bocanegra said. "We have field trips every Friday if students attend class and get all their homework in."

Their classes consist of English, math and reading in the morning and science, art and recreation in the afternoon. Some of the seventh- and eighth-grade students who are not enrolled in summer school help out as tutors to younger children, Bocanegra said. English is spoken during the majority of the migrant classes, but the two teachers that run the program are bilingual.

"Sometimes people get the misconception that the migrant kids don't succeed or get in the flow of things," Bocanegra admitted. "Last year, one migrant student won top honors at the (eighth grade) graduation for achievement. This year, we were fortunate to have a migrant student named top athlete.

"I was in their boat," Bocanegra said of the language barrier. "I couldn't speak a word of English when I first started school."

Bocanegra said parents of children who failed the proficiency test sit down with instructors before the summer program to determine whether they feel the student will benefit from the extra work.

"On proficiency exams, some students need extra work in separate areas. They may excel in English and reading but can't cut it in math," Bocanegra said. "We gear the program to fit a student's needs."

"It's been my experience in Etiwanda, that kids don't have a lot to do during the summer," he said.

"Where can you go? If you have a swimming pool, that's great. If you have Atari, you get bored after awhile. Summer school is the only thing to do."

There are 305 first-through-eighth graders attending Cucamonga Junior High School's summer school program which runs until July 29. The most popular feature, computer classes, has a waiting list with 49 fifth-through-eighth grade names on it.

Tom Nalbach, a music teacher during the regular school year, is the computer teacher. He teaches students to alter speeds, printouts and basic programming on Apple computers in the hot little computer class filled with 28 students every hour between 8 and 11 a.m.

The last week of class, Nalbach will introduce the students to the graphic (or picture) aspect of the computers to "give them a chance to have some fun."

Nalbach, who said he has some interesting ideas mixing music with computers, was qualified for teaching the course after Central School District sent him to the Apple Computers training facility in Irvine. But handling the class is no piece of computer chip, so he has Debbie Romig as an aide.

Ten-year-old Brian LeMaster, staring at the computer screen as he typed "Jet Skis Rule!" said getting up early to go to school "kinda, sorta" bothers him, but if it means getting to his 10 a.m. computer class, it's worth it.

"I've got an Atari computer at home," he said. "I like this one a lot better than the Atari."

Sitting next to LeMaster was David Neat, 10, who will enter the sixth

An Edison Energy Survey Of Your Home Can Save You Energy And Money, Too.

The Wests, Lineaus and Reutters are just three examples of Edison customers who significantly reduced their energy consumption and costs following a free home energy survey of their homes by Southern California Edison energy specialists.

If you're looking for ways to reduce your monthly electric bills, you can arrange a free energy survey of your home today.

All you do is call the toll-free number indicated below or fill in the coupon and send it to us.

We'll call you and set up an appointment at a time that's convenient for you. A trained Edison specialist will visit your home and do a personalized, computerized energy survey which will clearly identify steps you can take to make your home more energy efficient. The survey takes only about an hour.

Many energy conservation methods we recommend cost little or nothing. For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Edward West reported savings by following such simple measures as air-drying dishes in the dishwasher and using their fire-place rather than their heating system.

Of course, other savings were affected by installation of more energy-efficient devices in the home. The Wests installed an evaporative cooler and also weatherstripped and caulked their home. The Lineaus, after their audit, added two desert coolers to their cooling system and reduced their hot weather bills 40%. The Reutters insulated their attic and wrapped their ducts and water heater. They expect a reduction of $170 in their electric bills.

Chances are, a free energy survey will save you energy and money.

This summer, if you choose to install energy-saving devices in your home following an Edison survey, you also may be eligible for hundreds of dollars in cash rebates on energy savers listed here. Or you may qualify for low, 8% interest financing with no down payment and up to eight years to repay. Also, you may be eligible for state or federal tax credits on these expenditures.

Here's a list of rebates available:

Energy-efficient refrigerator	$ 50
Heat pump water heater	266
Weather stripping and caulking	19
Duct insulation	106
Attic & roof insulation	302
Wall insulation	145
Floor insulation	128
Storm and thermal windows	134
Heat pump	915
High-efficiency air conditioning units	421
Whole house fan	160
Evaporative cooler	328
Pre-Cooler	200
Clock thermostat	36

To arrange your survey, and for full details, just call us toll-free at 1-800-952-5062.

For faster service, fill in the coupon and send it back to us today. Meantime, thank you for all your conservation efforts.

Yes! I want to find out how I can save money and energy in my home. Please contact me to set up an appointment for a Free Home Energy Survey.

Salty ice cream and tanned hide to me it sounded fine. I played on the black keys and the white ones, but the melody seemed to come from the cracks between them. It might have been worth millions, today, as rock music.

Tiring of composing, I often cautiously made my way to the point under the, long since gone, belfry, where the bell rope hung down. If the coast was clear, I would haul on the bell rope, 6 or 8 times, as the bell's peeling rang out over Upland.

Townpeople must have wondered what special service was in session. If anyone came to check, there was nobody in sight by then, not even me.

On one occasion, the Ladies Aid met at the home of Amy and Glenn Wright, at what is now about 620 W. Arrow, nearly hidden by shrubbery. When I arrived, Glenn was about done cranking on an old ice cream freezer, for the Ladies' usual refreshments.

He carefully removed the ice and rock salt from the top of the metal cylinder containing the ice cream. He pulled out the dasher, scraping off the goody that stuck to it. Replacing the cover, and packing the ice and salt around it, he warned me, "Now, John keep away from that."

So, I went out to play in the street. Soon, two "big boys" on bicycles came along, one behind the other. I managed to get right in front of them, to see them get around me. They didn't. The first one hit me, knocked me flat, and rode over my legs, followed by the second. And they rode on.

Not hurt, but highly insulted by this hit and run affair, I needed something to improve my disposition. Ice cream seemed just the thing, so I slipped back to Glenn's basement for a taste.

When the ladies tasted their ice cream, there were universal looks of horror. It was full of salt. No detective was needed to figure out what caused it. Oh well, I was getting accustomed to Pop's razor strap against the strap of my pants.

School days at Upland Grammar School were interesting, but I best recall recesses and special events. Favorite recess games were marbles and tops. They amounted to seeing how many of someone else's you could knock out of a circle drawn in the dirt, by using your own marble or top as a missile. Under certain rules, those you knocked out became yours.

We often had student body events on the lawn in front of the old building, just east of our present post office. There were such things as Maypole Winding, and the like.

Usually attending these events, was one of Upland's four-man police force, officer Louis Kronmeyer. He seemed to be a friend of us kids, and probably believed in public awareness of the police.

Kronmeyer rode a big motorcycle. His uniform was quite natty. He wore riding breeches, puttees, and a fine jacket, topped by a soft chauffeur's type cap, and goggles. Most memorable of all were his two revolvers (six-shooters), with one on either hip. These earned him the name of "Two Gun Louie," respectively known to us kids as "Ol' Two Gun." He specialized in traffic violations. □ little circuses."

John H. Nicholson is an Upland resident who here chronicles his family's history in the West Valley.

In 1963, Cochran retired and the couple moved to Pomona. Mrs. Cochran purchased the Continental Trailways Bus and Travel Service.

Cochran said he soon tired of helping out in the bus business, "so I reactivated myself."

He purchased a camper and had it decorated with brightly painted balloons. In the vehicle, he installed a puppet theater and cotton candy machine.

As "Cecil the Clown," Cochran entertained hundreds of children at store openings and Christmas parties given by various civic organizations.

Cochran's puppets — various humorous animals, a frightful dragon and a Spanish dance team — became familiar to youngsters throughout the valley.

Now a resident of Emerson Village in Pomona, Cochran makes it clear that he no longer performs. He is, however, helping his granddaughter build a puppet theater, fashion handmade puppets and develop the show script and music for a Youth for Christ group.

He appears to agree with his granddaughter, who one day confided in a friend: "My granddad, he's never going to get old. He still plays with dolls." □ grade at the school in September. When asked if he missed being at home during his summer break, Neat said "I'd rather play with computers instead."

Like Etiwanda, Central School District's program offers assistance to students who failed their seventh grade proficiency test.

However, the district has the noble distinction of being the only elementary and junior high school district in the city offering math and reading classes to all students this summer.

In fact, though strapped for cash and currently deficit spending, Central's board of trustees rejected the administration's recommendation earlier this year to cancel summer school.

"It's the age-old problem — it's not ability but motivation."

That is how Dean Enfield, the assistant principal at Alta Loma Junior High, sums up the educational problems of students enrolled in that school's summer program for those who failed the seventh-grade proficiency examination.

Gregory Kidd teaches math and Scott Flaharty language arts to the 40 students (out of 90 eligible) who not only retake the proficiency examination but are a step ahead when they enter the eighth grade in

About town

20-year reunion planned

Upland High School Class of 1963 will hold its 20-year reunion on Saturday, Aug. 6 at El Prado Country Club, Chino.

Social hour will begin at 6:30 followed by dinner at 8.

A notice has been mailed to to graduates on file. Those who have not been contacted are asked to call Bruce Zwissler, 987-9840 or write him at P.O. Box 155, Upland, 91786.

Camping program planned

Brethren in Christ is sponsoring a full summer camping program suitable for young people of all ages.

Three camps will be held at Mile High Pines Camp, in San Bernardino National Forest. Junior Camp, for children entering grades 4-6, will be held July 25 through 30; Junior High Camp, for grades 7 and 8, Aug. 22 through 27; Senior High Camp, for campers entering grades 9-12, Aug. 15 through 20.

For registration information write Brethren in Christ Camping, P.O. Box 245, Upland, Ca, 91786.

Plaza sponsors R.C. mixer

On Tuesday, July 26, 5-7:30 p.m. the Alta Loma Plaza is sponsoring a Rancho Cucamonga Chamber mixer. Most of the shops in the center will have a "Mixer Sale." Featured will be John Walt, guitarist. Food and cocktails will be served with a no-host bar provided.

Alta Loma Plaza is located on the southeast corner of 19th Street and Carnelian.

The event is free and the public is welcome.

Animal hospital open

Baseline Animal Hospital in Alta Loma celebrated its grand opening for Baseline Animal Resort, a pet boarding and grooming facility, on Sunday.

The hospital has also joined National Pet Care Centers, a new national organization with a 24-point program designed to increase pet owners' awareness to preventative medical care.

Baseline Animal Resort is an indoor, environmentally controlled facility catering to pampered pets. Separate dog, cat and bird wards are designed with comfort in mind, giving all guests individualized love and care.

A soon-to-be-completed penthouse suite will serve pets requiring private quarters and 24-hour care as well as home-cooked meals. Twice daily veterinary check-ups will be given all guests.

Tennis club celebrates 10th year

Upland Tennis Club at 1525 W. 15th St., formerly known as the Upland Racquet Club, is celebrating its 10th anniversary.

The tennis club started out with four courts on five acres just east of Benson Avenue on 15th Street.

The club now has 13 courts; 12 are lighted for night play. A small pro shop has been replaced with a clubhouse complete with a swimming and therapy pool.

Jim and Angie Azelton have been involved in the club for seven years, Jim as the resident professional, Angie as club manager. In addition to tournaments for club members, the Upland Tennis Club will host a United States Tennis Association-sanctioned tournament.

Alcoholism chapter formed

A chapter of the California Women's Commission on Alcoholism is being organized at the Ontario Community Hospital, 550 Monterey Ave.

The California Women's Commission on Alcoholism is the nation's first statewide group whose primary purpose is to advocate more and more appropriate services for women with alcohol-related problems.

The CWCA is a private, non-profit corporation dedicated to learning the needs of women alcoholics and women with alcohol-related problems and assuring that those needs are met throughout the state.

For information, call Vel Gilbert at 988-3844.

Child protection services

The San Bernardino County Department of Public Social Services is calling for proposals from private nonprofit agencies on Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention and Intervention projects within the confines of San Bernardino County.

The selected proposals will be funded from the San Bernardino County Children's Trust Fund established by the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors on Feb. 7.

Monies in the Children's Trust Fund are received from a surcharge placed on birth certificates and from grants, gifts or bequests from private sources. Currently the fund accumulates at the rate of approximately $7,000 per month.

Anyone interested in donating funds specifically to the San Bernardino County Children's Trust Fund, or in receiving a copy of the Request for Proposal, call T. Michael Decker, Social Services Division Chief at 383-2023.

Meeting slated for Chino pilots

Chino Pilots Association will hold its bi-monthly meeting at the Planes of Fame Museum's new building tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The program is the annual safety meeting. Jim Welton, Chino Airport Tower Chief, will present and review the latest tower information. Riverside GADO will present a new film on accident prevention.

For information, call Tony Peich, 628-3037.

Resource conservation honored

The West End Resource Conservation District won top honors among the California districts competing in the 36th annual Goodyear Conservation Awards Program.

The competition is sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in cooperation with the National Association of Resource Conservation Districts.

Budd LaRue, manager of Bodger Seed Company, Chino, was chosen as the district's outstanding cooperator and he along with Warren Bennett, President of West End RCD and a resident of Ontario, will attend a conservation tour at the Goodyear Farms, Litchfield Park, Ariz. They will be joined by 52 other winning districts throughout the United States.

The district was selected for its achievements in resource conservation and development by a committee of State agricultural leaders.

Designers plan trip to China

A tour of China from the designer's point of view has been planned for May 7-29, 1984 by a group of interior designers of the American Society of Interior Designers, California Inland Chapter, in Southern California.

Headed by Cecilia Wong, ASID, Claremont, the tour will be offered as a tour/study package for architects and designers.

For information, call Cecilia Wong, 624-8214.

Van Ness Water Gardens

stretching and contouring it to the pond shape. After filling, allow it to settle for one week.

Liner sizes start at 4 feet by 5 feet (big enough for a half barrel) at $9.95 and go up to 13 feet by 27 feet for a shape of 13 feet by 22 feet at $234.96. There are several sizes in between and roll liners for waterfalls and bogs.

Those who wish a more conventional construction may opt for the traditional cement ponds. These need to be dug 24 inches to 30 inches for a finished depth of 18 inches to 24 inches.

This style also needs straight sides and a uniform depth. The excavation should be lined with 1/2-inch tie rods spaced about one foot apart.

Uber recommends that the tie rod frame be one inch above the ground to allow the cement to wrap around it. Inexpensive wire mesh should be placed on the tie rods to allow the cement to adhere to it. No pipes, rocks or tile should be added at this point.

The mixture used should be three parts sand to one part cement. It can be layed all at one time or in layers. Side and bottom should not be cemented at different times and you should have a total of three to four inches of cement. Allow cement to harden but not dry. It must be kept wet at all times by sprinkling lightly once an hour.

Any tile work or rocks can then be cemented into place. As soon as the pool is sufficiently hardened to hold water, fill it. Uber recommends that the pool be sealed or painted before filling.

After painting or sealing, the pool needs to be cured because quantities of free lime are released which are toxic to fish and plants.

To cure, mix a gallon of vinegar with each 200 gallons of water in the pond and let it set for three days. Empty, rinse thoroughly and refill.

A faster method is to mix a gallon of vinegar to 10 gallons of water and scrub briskly with a brush or broom. If more solution is needed, make it up and be sure to reach all surfaces. Rinse pool thoroughly, drain and refill.

Some people wish to begin on a less ambitious note.

Uber recommends a half barrel or tub garden. Water gardens can be placed in almost any type of container — old horse troughs, spas and bathtubs. "People can use their imagination and creative instincts to make something truly unique," he said.

New techniques make elaborate pipework, plumbing, drains or sump boxes a thing of the past. All accessories — fountains, waterfalls, light — can be added any time, he said.

Uber recommends considering electrical sources during the building stages even if you don't think you may want anything wired. All electrical pool equipment will need grounded, three prong outlets.

Bobby float valves (about $12) that automatically maintain the level of water in the pool and add water as needed are helpful. Copper tubing which runs from the water supply to the pool with the float bracket at the edge would be necessary.

Once the pool itself is in, the fun of selecting fish, plants and all the other things that make the garden an individual creation begins.

Although each pond differs (amount of sun, depth, dimensions, water movement, temperature) a rule of thumb in providing pond balance says that for every square yard of surface area, you should have two bunches of oxygenating grasses, one medium or large water lily, 12 water snails (yard type won't do) and two 4- to 5-inch fish. □

It's never too late to stop smoking

"Breathe Easy" — a guide to 96 stop-smoking programs in Southern California — is available free of charge.

The newly published guide may be obtained from the University of Southern California Comprehensive Cancer Center and from local offices of the American Cancer Society and the American Lung Association. Single copies may be obtained by calling (800) CANCER.

In the 32-page guide are 20 tips on how to quit smoking, including not carrying cigarettes, smoking with the opposite hand, smoking only half of each cigarette and postponing the first cigarette of the morning.

The guide's "How to Choose a Program" section advises the smoker to obtain information on four aspects of a program before attending. Questions should be asked regarding the program's treatment methods, cost, follow-up and success rate.

"Breathe Easy" stresses that smokers should never stop trying to give up the habit. If one method doesn't work, the guide states, the smoker should try another. No one — not even someone who has smoked for more than 30 years — should think it's too late to quit. As soon as an individual quits smoking, the body begins to repair the damage done by cigarettes. Eventually, the risk of dying from smoking-related diseases becomes no greater than that of someone who never smoked.

This year, 100,000 Americans will die from lung cancer and 85 percent of those deaths will be due to cigarette smoking. The death rate from lung cancer in cigarette smokers is 10 times that of non-smokers. According to the U.S. Surgeon General, 30 percent of all cancer deaths are caused by smoking — the single, major, avoidable cause of death in our society.

"Breathe Easy" is a joint effort of the USC Cancer Center, Area III of the American Cancer Society, Glendale Adventist Medical Center, and the American Lung Association of Los Angeles County.

Summer classes enable some students to pass required test

September.

"What we have found out is a lot of kids come back next year after eight weeks of continuous study, two hours a day in each subject, and they retain a lot of that," Flaharty said. "That's what we like about it. They are ready for the eighth grade."

Kidd and Flaharty have devised a point system which gives the students a chance to accumulate points during the four-hour class. At the end of the course, those points can be traded for prizes the teachers pay for out of their own pockets.

"Having that carrot dangling in front of them sure helps," Kidd admits.

It has paid off for the teachers, who have taught during summer school for four years. Under the same type of program last year, all the summer school students passed the proficiency exam the second time, according to Flaharty.

If a student shows he can achieve higher educational plateaus than expected, Flaharty said "we'll take them as high as they can go."

Erik Douglas, 13, of Alta Loma said he likes the pace better during the summer because "it's easier. Mostly all this stuff I already know. I'm just going over it. I know the English, I just have to pass the math."

And when it comes to the onerous task of again taking the proficiency test, Douglas said he will win this time.

"Yeah, I think I'll pass it. If I don't, I just wasted most of my summer."

"At least there's no homework," 14-year-old Lisa Bodley of Alta Loma said of summer school.

"It's pretty hard because I like to do things after school that go pretty late and then I have to get up at 7 (a.m.) But, it's worth it." □
